THOUSANDS ENJOY WINTER SPORT

ANYONE CAN LEARN ON NURSERY SLOPES

By WILFRID TREMELLEN

Thousands of British people are travelling to Switzerland for the Winter Sports. Snow has at last fallen heavily in Switzerland, and the sports are in full swing. Twice as many trains have been run from England as compared with last year.

"BUT," you object, "I've never seen a ski, except on my way through to the millinery department—and then I didn't stop."

You may not have seen a luge, either, but it hardly matters. Because the winter sports folk are a chooey crowd, and it is difficult to feel a stranger among them. The jolly old man in the corner seat at Victoria constitutes himself your "uncle" as soon as you have given him permission to smoke, and although his labels show he is going to a different centre, what he does not know about the place you are bound for is negligible.

PLACE FOR BEGINNERS

On your first morning in Switzerland you go down to the village to select ski and sticks at the "Sport Shop." For two or three francs you can hire all you want for a fortnight. Your travelling companions of yesterday, all talking at once, explain how you find your right size, and soon you are all plank-planking down the frozen road towards the Nursery Slopes. It reminds you of the time when you were a child and tied date-boxes to your feet.

You climb a modest slope and shove yourself off with your sticks. Now you are whizzing down in fine style, breathless with the exhilaration of it until, after attaining what seems a fearful speed, you wobble, recover, wobble again and fall, losing your sticks and tumbling over and over. Astonishing! You sit up, wipe the snow from your eyes, and find that, though the mountains all seem to have changed places, you have not hurt yourself in the least.

EASY TO LEARN

After a few more descents you find that if you keep your knees "loose" they act as springs and you can keep your balance over the irregularities of the slope.

While you are struggling to your feet an old hand comes up with a word of advice. "The way to avoid falling," he says, giving you an

MONKS' ACTION FAILS

"TRAPPIST BEER" TRADE NAME

Brussels, Jan. 2. The Antwerp Commercial Court has non-suited the Trappist Fathers in a claim for 250,000 francs damages for unlawful competition made by them against a brewer of Brussels, near Antwerp, who sold beer under the name of Trappist Beer.

For the brewer it was contended that the name "Trappist" was not a special mark, but applied to several beers made in different

Trappist monasteries; that the Trappists were not traders, and therefore could not complain of competition on the part of a real trader.

The Court, in a closely reasoned judgment, agreed entirely with the brewer's submissions. It held that the Trappists were an association not for purposes of profit, and that their ideal was to live according to the precepts of St. Benedict, to do charitable work, and to propagate the Catholic Faith. Though it could be admitted that a religious community might carry on a trade to supply its charitable funds, it was inadmissible that such a community should place itself on the same footing as real traders, whose business was carried on exclusively for profit.

The Trappists were ordered to pay the costs of the action.

Sir Oswald Mosley, leader of the British Fascist party (left), shown leaving the court at Lewes, Sussex, during the course of his trial on charges of riotous assembly. The case arose from stormy meetings of the Mosley-led Blackshirts. Sir Oswald was acquitted.

King Winter reigns in Switzerland again, and thousands of his loyal subjects are enjoying the multitude of sports at his court.

HOUSING SCHEME

FURNITURE BY HIRE-PURCHASE

Leeds. Further plans have been made in connexion with the £12,000,000 housing scheme of the Leeds Corporation.

Additional particulars of the hire-purchase furnishing plan which has caused so much comment have been given by the chairman of the Housing Committee, the Rev. C. Jenkinson, who indicated that the type of furniture under the hire-purchase agreement would be similar to that displayed in the exhibition houses. Everything which is considered essential in the way of furniture and furnishings is shown in a price-list which has been issued for complete furnishings on the hire-purchase system. A reduction is made where the tenant is in a position to pay cash.

It has also been decided to build flats to accommodate 800 families in the Quarry Hill district, which was until recently one of the slums of the city. The scheme is an ambitious one and includes a community centre, swimming baths and wash-houses, accommodation for perambulators, a central station for the disposal of refuse, 20 shops, and a children's bathing pool.

Another tender has been accepted, the Woolley Construction Company, Limited, of Leeds, having secured the contract for the erection of 208 dwellings at £76,692.

The chairman states that the lists of application for corporation houses have now had to be closed. No houses will be available apart from those needed for slum-clearance purposes and the 1,000 which are to be erected under the non-subsidy plan.

British Tamines (Top) receiving a jovial Nazi salute from Saarlanders as they prepared to take up their billets in Saarbrücken upon arrival to patrol the Saar valley during the League of Nations plebiscite period. They immediately began to make friends among the townsfolk who accorded them a cordial reception. Two of them are pictured below in difficulty over the language while picking out the inevitable picture postcards to send home.

The worst Canadian railway accident in 48 years occurred near the little town of Dundas, in the province of Ontario, as holiday celebrants returned to their homes Christmas night. A fast express train, swerving into a siding instead of passing on the main line, tore into the rear coaches of a holiday special, standing on the siding to allow the express right of way, reducing them to a mass of splintered wreckage, killing 18 and injuring 35. frantic work in the early hours of the morning by railway wrecking crews, volunteers, doctors and nurses succeeded in saving many more lives. Above is shown a view of the debris after the huge locomotive tore its way through the excursion coaches.

"Now I Feel Like A New Woman!"

Mother Of Five In England Tells Of After-Maternity Troubles Ended and Health Restored

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

Of the many trials that women are called upon to endure, perhaps there is none greater than that of motherhood. All too frequently this ordeal is followed by extreme weakness and much suffering. A case in point is that of Mrs. Alman, the mother of five children, of 965, Manchester Road, Over Hulton, near Bolton, England, who stated recently to a newspaper reporter:

"After my last baby was born two years ago I failed to recover strength. I always felt wretchedly weak, and if I tried to do any work I had a severe pain over my heart. My nerves were in such a state that I dare not go out shopping. That was not the worst of it, for I suffered terribly from cramp in the night all through my body. I was so wracked with pain that I could not sleep."

"I tried various remedies, but derived no benefit, and then about four months ago my brother-in-law advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as they had done his wife much good. I started taking the pills, and before long there was a decided improvement. This encouraged me to persevere with the pills. I continued to gain strength, and the cramp pains began to lessen until before long they went altogether."

"Now I am like a new woman. People remark what a wonderful change there is in me. Ever since a girl I suffered from anaemia, but now all traces of it have disappeared." Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the world-renowned blood builder and nerve tonic, are equally good for weak, debilitated, nervous men as they are for women. Chemists everywhere sell them.

The following are the latest Hongkong appointments announced in London:—Lt. Commander Gandy, R.N. (Ret'd), late Harbour Surveyor, to be Land Surveyor, Public Works Department, Hongkong; Mr. E. S. Lambert, late Land Surveyor, Public Works Department, to be Assistant Superintendent of Surveys, Hongkong.

These 2 Guardians of Your Beauty

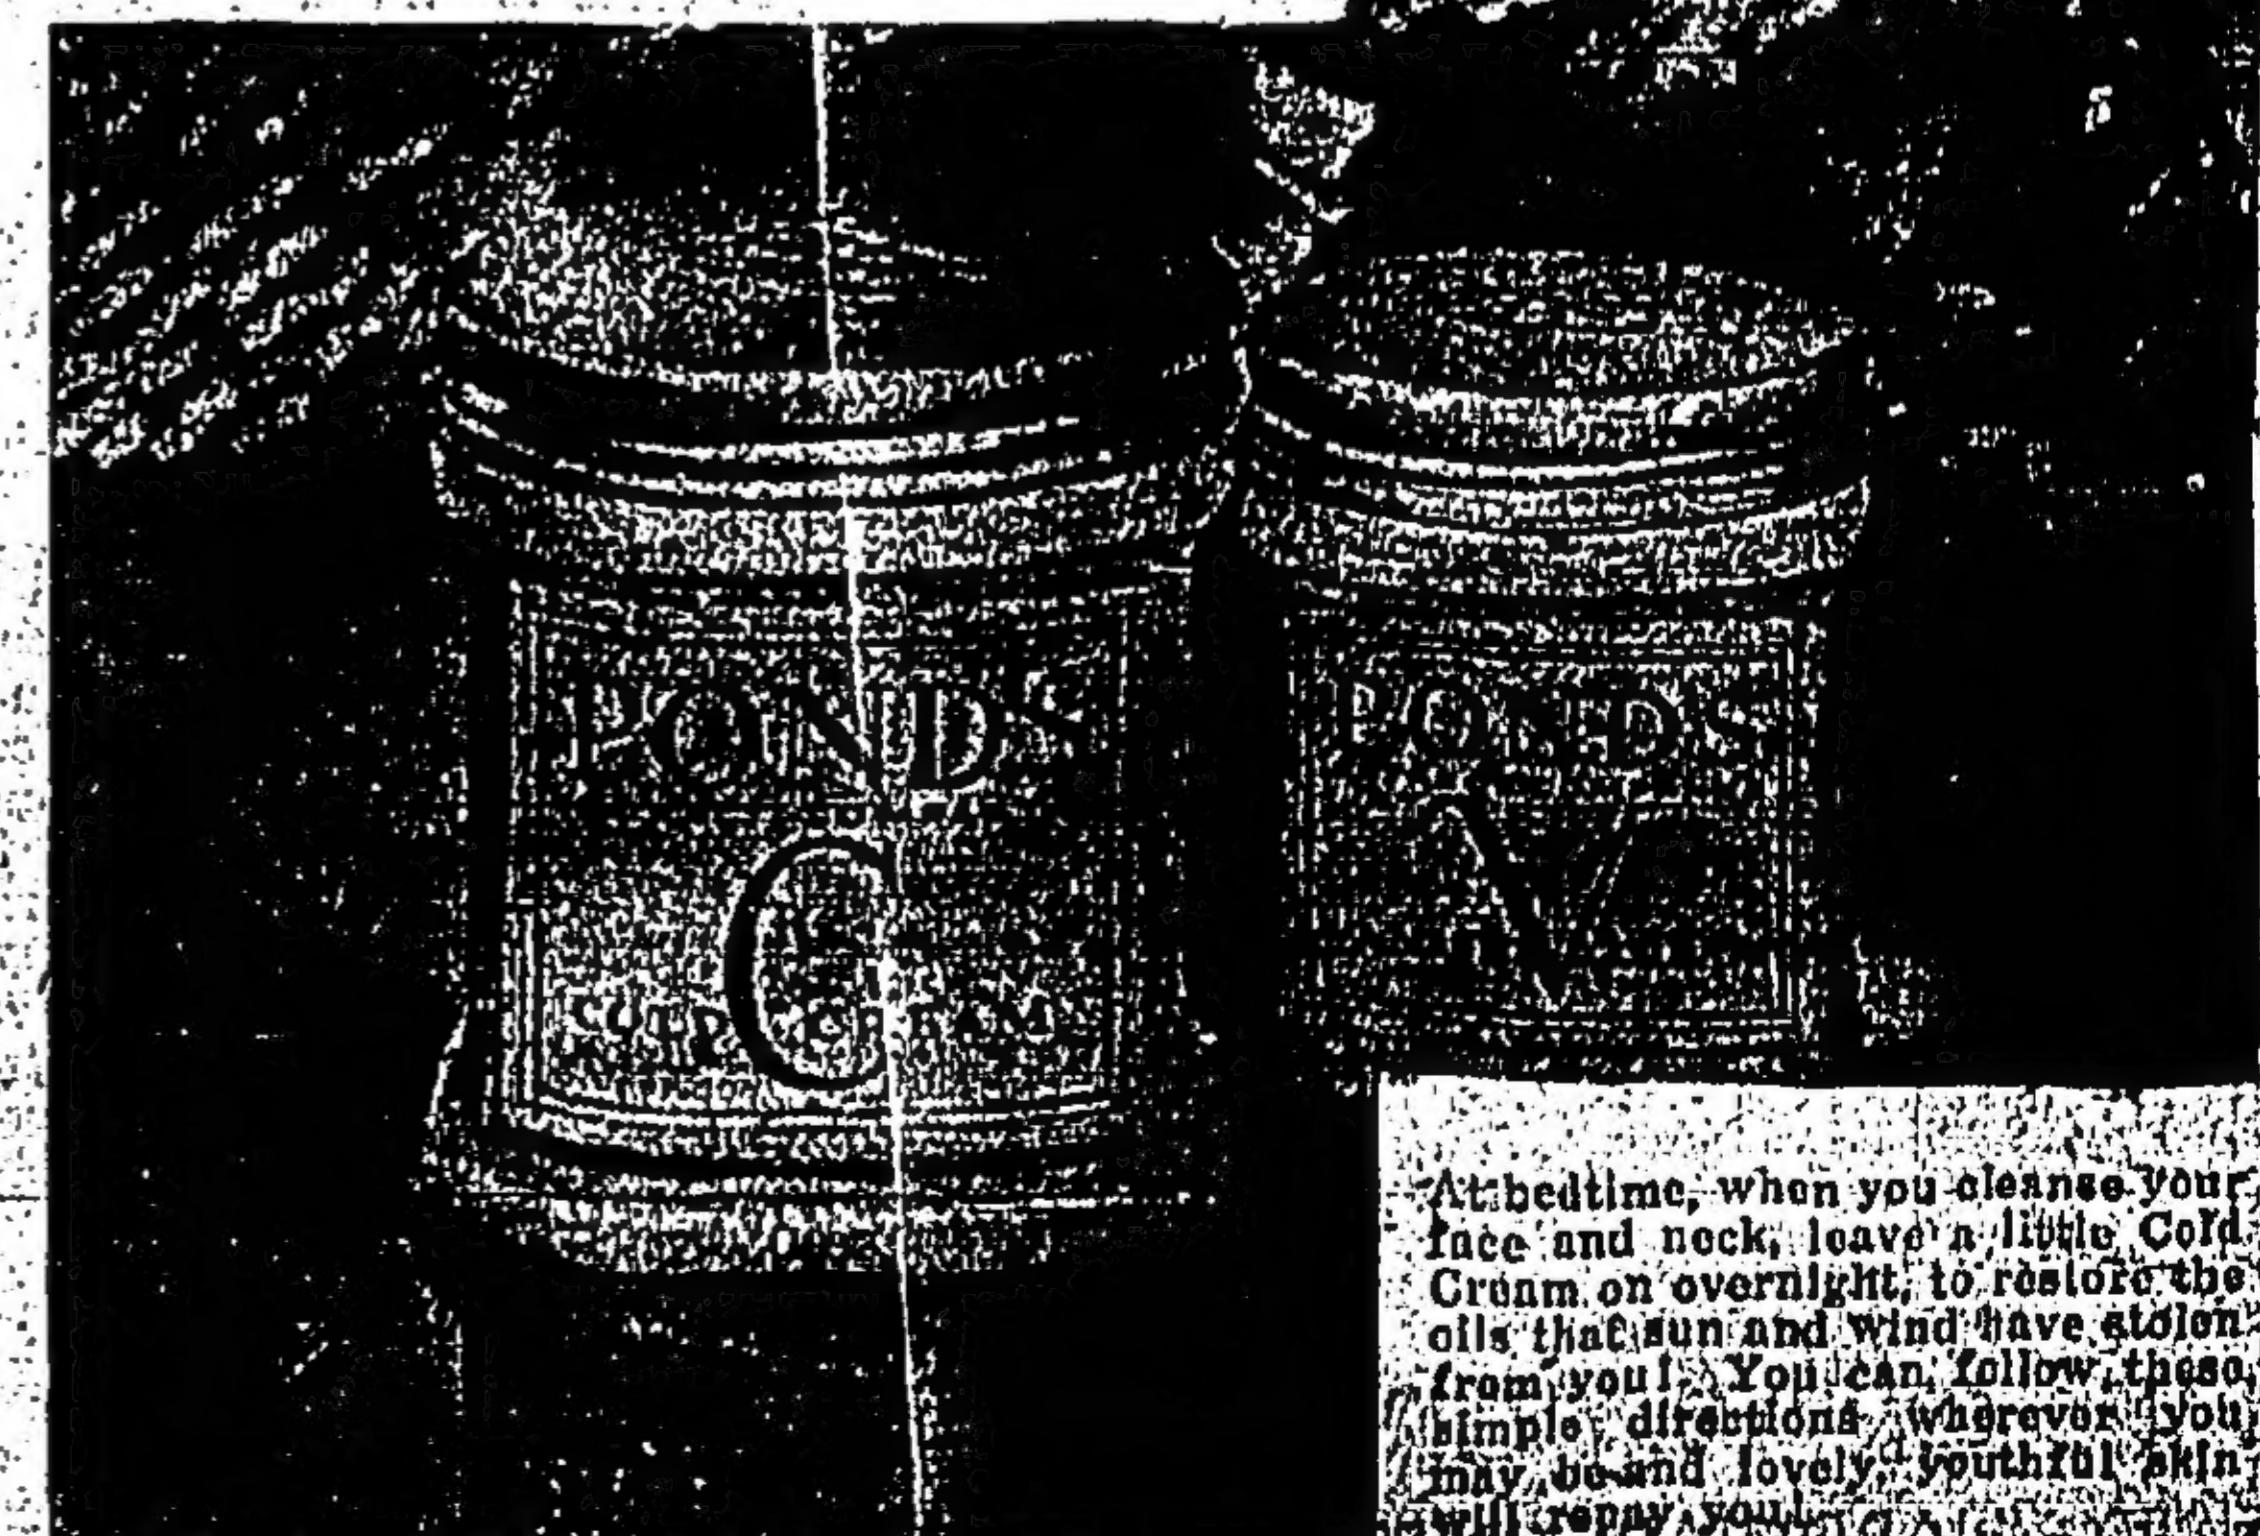

PROTECT YOUR SKIN IN ANY CLIMATE

Pond's Two famous Creams sold all over the world. They can be bought in all stores and chemist shops... for women everywhere have proved the Pond's care of their skin an unfailing protection against exposure to harsh extremes of climate, to the fatigue and grime of travel, the searing heat of the sun, the bite of bitter winds.

Let these two guardians do for YOUR skin what they are doing for women in every part of the globe. Follow this way faithfully and watch your complexion grow younger, softer, clearer every day!

With Pond's Cold Cream cleanse your face and neck thoroughly several times a day, always after exposure and at bedtime. Smooth on the Cream generously, wiping off soiled Cream and applying fresh two or three times. You will be amazed how CLEAN and soft your skin looks after this thorough cleansing.

Now, to protect the texture and give a moss-rose bloom—Pond's Vanishing Cream. With your finger tips, lightly cover your face and neck with a delicate film of this fluffy Cream—then powder. You will be entranced at the even finish of your skin—the glowing translucence.

At bedtime, when you cleanse your face and neck, leave a little Cold Cream on overnight, to restore the oils that sun and wind have stolen from you. To protect, follow these simple directions: Wash your face, dry it, and apply Pond's Cold Cream. It will repay you.

AVIATION PROSPECTS

Fresh hopes of an understanding being reached between the Hongkong and Nanking Governments in regard to mutual flying rights have been engendered by the visit to the Colony of Mr. Tai En-ki, the managing director of the China National Aviation Corporation. It is known that Mr. Tai has conferred with the local authorities on the subject, but, according to a statement which he made in Canton, nothing definite transpired from the conversations, as the subject is at present engaging the attention both of the Colonial Office and the Hongkong Government. The latter, however, is said to be anxious to come to an agreement on mutually satisfactory lines and thus open up the Colony to aerial contact with China. It has long been known that the authorities here and in London are desirous of overcoming the present obstacles, and if Mr. Tai's statement of the quid pro quo which the Nanking Government would be prepared to offer for the right to extend the C.N.A.C. service to Hongkong correctly represents the situation, it is reasonable to expect an early adjustment of the outstanding issues. According to Mr. Tai, the Nanking Government would, in exchange for the right to bring its planes here, grant permission for British planes to fly over Chinese territory on the projected Imperial Airways route from Singapore. In such an event, says Mr. Tai, there would be an exchange of mails and passengers as between the two services. Hitherto, it has been presumed that the Imperial Airways would provide its own feeder service from Singapore to Hongkong, but at

NOTES OF THE DAY

LOUISIANA REVOLT

To British people, report of a "revolt" against the State administration in Louisiana by men who call themselves the "Square Dealers" seems an incredible thing. When two hundred citizens of a city the size of Baton Rouge arm themselves with shotguns and threaten to fight in order to put an end to the "arrogant dictatorship" of the faction led by Senator Huey Long, it would seem that there must be something very wrong with the political structure of Louisiana. Imagine two hundred fellows from Manchester threatening the Council with shotguns! If it had occurred anywhere else in the United States it would have been called "revolution." But apparently that sort of thing is expected in Senator Long's part of the country. As a matter of fact one cannot be surprised at anything that happens there. Only recently Senator Long was at war with the New Orleans administration, allegedly because his party machine's workings were interrupted by officials who felt that the game of political patronage was being pushed too far. But in New Orleans, although the military was called out, there was never such a demonstration as this at Baton Rouge. The New Dealers are apparently business men, honest fellows, and it will be pity if their demonstration does not arouse a higher authority than Senator Long and put a stop to his foolery.

TO-MORROW'S TRAVEL.

When the chairman of Imperial Airways announced that the constructional possibilities of civil aircraft go far beyond anything that has been realised hitherto, he made it plain that the limits to-day are determined only by what the public is prepared to pay. If governments were prepared to pay more for ground services and in subsidies, and passengers to pay higher fares, then quicker regular air services could easily be provided between England and Australia and a safe service between England and America. This sequel indicates that the recent dramatic air race from England to Australia provided one of those turning points which have marked the history of air travel. If that transcontinental and transmaritime journey to the Antipodes could be made in three days, why cannot the ordinary time for air mail be reduced by 50 or more per cent? The answer seems to be that it can, if the cost will be met.

NEW EXPERIMENTS

The race stirred public opinion in Britain. At once it became evident that the British people were demanding much faster and better inter-Imperial communications. And swiftly in answer to this demand came the announcement that Imperial Airways was ready to supply a regular seven-day service from England to Australia for passengers and mails. But that was not all. It had become apparent that Britain was not willing to be behind hand in preparing for a regular transatlantic service. Imperial Airways is already experimenting with new types of aeroplanes and also with composite vessels, consisting of a flying boat capable of lifting and launching into the air a heavily laden seaplane. But it seems more likely that the solution of the problem of regular services between England and the United States will be found in the use of floating, anchored seadromes. Such a service no longer holds out serious economic difficulties. It can become a success as soon as the nations agree to co-operate in their use of the floating ports.

At the same time there have been indications that it might be prepared to work in with any substantially British concern. It remains to be seen whether there are local interests willing to come into the scheme. There is, at any rate, guarantee of a subsidy by the local Government if satisfactory arrangements can be reached. But whatever the eventual procedure may be, it is essential that definite steps be taken, without further delay, in linking up this Colony with other aviation services. Incidentally, the C.N.A.C. is said to have no knowledge of the American plans for a service from San Francisco to Canton; indeed, there is some doubt whether China would be prepared to come into such a scheme; indications are that the C.N.A.C. would prefer to establish its own link with Manila. However that may be, it is something to the good to realise that the project of bringing Hongkong into aerial contact with the outside world is now assuming more definite shape. Happily, we can count on the Hongkong Government doing all within its power to hasten the consummation of this much-needed project.

TO BARROW BY SLED DEER

By ELIZABETH FORREST
(In The Christian Science Monitor)

FIVE o'clock of a morning early in May found us trudging up a gentle incline before the clustered igloos of the Nekluk reindeer herd. All night we had been labouring across the level, snow-clad tundra under the chill brilliance of the circling sun. At each step my sealskin boots broke through the thin, deceptive crust, sank knee-deep in soft snow. Wearily I drew them out, only to thrust them in again, over and over—endlessly.

At my side, Kitook, my sturdy little sled deer, his head drooping under the weight of great branching antlers, mouth wide, snatching a bite of snow from time to time, waded through soft drifts. The horizon line swept around us in a great, unbroken circle, bounding the vast expanse of white. Not a sound broke the silence save the pant of Kitook's loud breathing, the sharp crackle of snowflakes above the fellock. Nothing was visible upon the great white plain except our three reindeer teams, strung out, one behind the other, en route from the home village of Wainwright to pay a friendly call upon our nearest white neighbours at Barrow, 100 miles away.

We had left Wainwright in the evening in order to give our sled deer, in their shaggy winter coats, the benefit of the cooler hours of night. We should not have set out at all; for snow had recently covered the tundra to a depth of several inches, and neither blizzard nor freeze had yet packed it to good sledding. But we had not seen a white face in many months. School was over for the year, and the date long set for our Barrow visit had arrived. Our grub box was packed to overflowing with frozen beans, bread sliced and buttered before freezing, chunks of roast reindeer, cookies, and doughnuts. Our sled deer had been brought in two days' journey from the icy Cape herd. All was in readiness. In spite of a trail that should have kept us at home, therefore, my husband and I, with our Eskimo guide, Tautuk, had set out—and regretted it for eight exhausting hours.

Never was sight more welcome than the Nekluk igloos—shapeless mounds of white from which black stove-pipes thrust out, aslant. Along a near-by snow ridge stretched the herd, a mass of hundreds of dun, brown and spotted deer, their antlers silhouetted against the sky line like a tangle of winter branches. No human life was visible, but out from the igloo entrance dashed a bevy of short-legged, sharp-eared little reindeer dogs, disputing our approach.

"You go in here," Sevek's wife, said Tautuk, as he unloaded our dunnage before the largest mound. "I look moss—stake out sled deer."

As Tautuk trudged away to perform the Arctic equivalent of car parking, we turned to the igloo indicated. Bent nearly double, we dragged our grub box and sleeping bags through a long hallway of snow blocks, pushed under a heavy dogskin curtain, and entered the igloo. Coming from the glare of sun on snow outside into the dim light filtering through seal intestines window overhead, at first we could distinguish nothing. Presently, however, we made out colling, walls and floor of handwoven driftwood with, in one corner, among a heap of skins and robes,

"Don't you see, Marve? Deducting those eggs you borrowed from me yesterday, I only owe you 30 cents."

The Very Idea!

OUR SILLY SYMPHONY

By Horatio Bogg, Millionaire. This pointed allusion by owners of missing dogs to an unorthodox diet being practised in Hongkong, has given us the very idea—and a dreadful one.

Ringing the bell in our palatial pink mansion we send for the chef whom we brought back from our last pleasure trip to Paris.

"Alphonse," we ask, "have you got anything to do with these missing dogs?"

He deprecates the suggestion with a characteristic shrug of his shoulders.

"Rien de tout," he replies.

"All right, Alphonse; you are acquitted."

A well-meaning fellow is Alphonse, the best cook it is possible to get anywhere. He does everything with the best of intentions, but there have been times when these get the better of his judgment.

Take, for instance, the dinner we gave on our last birthday.

Having the previous day accumulated another cool million on a favourable turn of the exchange, this with no other effort than being wheeled into it in a 3-coole-power ricksha, we thought the occasion a jolly good one for boosting our luck and the sumptuous appointments of our table. We were to be favoured also with the cream of Hongkong society—taipans and Civil Servants.

The morning of the banquet, therefore, we sent for Alphonse.

"I want you to make to-night your very best effort," we told him.

If anything, Alphonse is a master in his own line. You may prate of your portrait masterpieces, and your Friends may keep the best they can compose of the enchanting beauties of Hongkong, but Alphonse has his own artistic conceptions of the more substantial delights of cuisine.

In his hands an ordinary enough steak is transformed into something surpassingly sublime—a perfect symphony of culinary perfection, to be approached with reverence rather than with gusto.

For this our birthday banquet we gave him carte blanche, and he promised us a whole opera.

What the nature of the various compositions we had then not the foggiest notion as they were to be shown in French on the menu—a la this and a la that, you know. But it was evidence of our perfect trust and faith in Alphonse, the fact that we left their entire selection to him, with only the proviso that they must in any event be substantial.

The banquet turned out to be a signal success. The wines were good; and Alphonse's well-varied collations were all enjoyed, the more so, we take it, because everything was a surprise. If they could do so without breaking good form, we believe the guests would have been loud in their praise.

The newspapers, in reporting it, also did us the honour of including it amongst the most brilliant social functions of the season, and we wondered what the Smiths and Joneses, who were not invited, would think of it.

The next day we sent for Alphonse to congratulate him on his masterpiece. Pointing to "grenouille" in the previous night's dinner card, we remarked that the chicken was particularly good.

"But M'sieur," he interjected, "that was not chicken: it was zee ah—"

Not here getting the right word, Alphonse gave a spasmodic leap to demonstrate what he wished to convey.

"FROGS! You have not been feeding us with frogs, have you, Alphonse?" we asked in dismay.

Alphonse spread out his extended hands. "Mais out," he asserted.

Ever since that day we have insisted on these symphonies being explained to us before allowing Alphonse to compose them.

KING'S JUBILEELOCAL CELEBRATION PROPOSALS

At the first meeting of the Silver Jubilee Committee held in the Council Chamber on January 21 sub-committees were appointed to organize local celebrations in connection with the 25th Anniversary of the reign of King George V.

Suggestions put forward included a review of the Naval and Military Forces, including the Volunteer forces, the illumination of the Island, mainland and harbour, and a public subscription for a local charity to be nominated by His Majesty the King.

His Excellency the Governor, Sir William Peel, proposed to give a Garden Party at Government House on the afternoon of May 6, while it is suggested that each school should organise a treat for its scholars on the same afternoon.

Present at the meeting were:

The Hon. the Colonial Secretary (Chairman), Sir W. E. L. Shenton, (Vice-Chairman), Captain J. D. Milne, representing Brigadier H. G. Seth-Smith, the Hon. the Secretary for Chinese Affairs, the Hon. the Secretary for Chinese Affairs, the Hon. the Director of Public Works, the Hon. Sir H. E. Pollock, the Hon. the Inspector General of Police, the Hon. Mr. R. H. Kotewall, the Hon. Mr. C. G. S. Mackie, the Hon. Mr. H. Bell, Squadron Leader C. R. Keary, the Vice-Chancellor, University of Hongkong, the Director of Education, the Commandant, Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps, the District Officer, North, the District Officer, South, His Majesty's Trade Commissioner and Commercial Secretary for South China, the Canadian Government Trade Commissioner (Mr. K. F. Noble acting), Mr. A. el Arculli, Mr. L. C. F. Bellamy, Dr. G. D. R. Black, Mr. J. D. Butcher, Mr. Leo d'Almada e Castro, Mr. E. Cock, Mr. S. H. Dodwell, Mr. K. E. Greig, the Rev. N. V. Haward, Mr. Ho Kom-tong, Sir Robert Ho Tung, Mr. W. J. Keswick, Mr. Li Yau-tsun; Major C. M. Manners, the Rev. E. G. Powell, Mr. A. L. Shields, the Rev. Father Spada, Mr. J. H. Taggart, Mr. A. Swann, Mr. D. W. Munton, Lieut. Col. H. L. Munton, and Mr. D. C. Wilson.

Suggested Programme

The Chairman addressed the meeting and after referring to His Majesty's wishes regarding the scope of the celebrations suggested the following programme as basis of discussion and invited further suggestions from those present.

On Monday, May 6 in the morning there might be a review of the Naval and Military Forces, including the Volunteer Forces, an official service in the Cathedral, and a meeting open to the public, at which local resolutions should be passed.

In the afternoon of the same day His Excellency proposed to give a Garden Party at Government House. It was further suggested that each school should organize a treat for its scholars that afternoon.

Illumination

In the evening the City of Victoria, Kowloon, the harbour and the hillsides should be illuminated. Military bands should be asked to play in Hongkong and Kowloon. There should also be a display of fireworks. The Boy Scouts and Girl Guides have arranged for a Jamboree to be held on May 8th.

A motion that the public meeting should take the form of an assembly of the Executive and Legislative Councils, together with the Judges and local Justices of the Peace, in the Council Chamber or other suitable building, was put to the meeting and passed.

The Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga suggested that the proceedings of the meeting be broadcast through the Colony. It was decided to examine the possibilities of this proposal.

The Hon. Sir W. E. L. Shenton, proposed that a subscription, limited to sums not exceeding one dollar, be collected from the community, the proceeds to be devoted to a local charity to be nominated by His Majesty. The motion was passed.

A Place Name

It was decided that the possibility of exhibiting in local cinemas a cinematograph film specially appropriate to the occasion be explored. It was further decided that a small sub-committee be formed to consider the feasibility of naming some place or building in memory of the Silver Jubilee.

Sub-Committees

The meeting then proceeded to elect the following sub-committees with power to co-opt other members as follows:

Review—the Commodore-in-Charge, Brigadier H. G. Seth-Smith,

STUDIES PEOPLE & MUSIC OF ALL NATIONS

spurned the miles, moving swiftly and smoothly along the well-marked trail that wound among great blocks and pinnacles of ice, deep, azure frosted with white. At intervals we pulled up on the tundra and sat patiently waiting on our sleds while the deer pawed beneath the snow for the brittle reindeer moss which is their winter diet. So on, hour after hour, until the second morning found us at Kokduk's igloo.

The igloo was deserted, the family having moved southward for the spring whaling. A great cone of snow, drifted in through a torn window, occupied the centre of the floor and the ceiling glittered with frost crystals like thin fragments of broken glass. We sat on the floor about our tiny coal stove, fur-muffled, laughing and joking above steaming cups of coffee and fried bread, then shed outer garments and slipped, shivering, into our chilled sleeping bags. No fire to dry and warm my garments this time, I thought regretfully, settling myself to the unevenness of the drift-log bunk. But presently, turning drowsily in the comforting warmth of the fur bag that enveloped me, I saw Taufuk, crouched above the blue flame of the primus stove, holding my fawnskin socks, turned fur side out, above the heat to dry. And knew that the watchful care of the igloo dweller had not failed us.

The trail, on the third night, was the sort of which the Arctic travellers dream. Cold and wind had packed the tundra's surface to the hardness of cement. Over this glistening white surface our sled deer swayed away at the speed which makes reindeer travel at its best a sport without a rival. I closed my eyes, felt against my cheeks the weight of frost-white lichen. The cold, pure air stung my face, drove the breath back into my lungs.

I had the feeling of being rushed through empty, silent space. No more running behind the sled or tugging at the sealskin guiding line for greater speed. Scarcely four hours of travel, and we mounted the bank from beach to tundra and now before us the white steeple of the most northerly church in the world, rising from the scattered houses and igloos of Barrow. And from their dwellings, men, women and children poured forth to welcome us to the northernmost point of North America.

Squadron Leader C. R. Keary, the Commandant, Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps, the Commanding Officer, Hongkong Naval Volunteer Force.

Illuminations and Fireworks.—The Hon. Sir W. E. L. Shenton, (Chairman).

Aflout.—The Commodore-in-Charge, the Hon. the Harbour Master, the Hon. the Inspector General of Police, the Hon. Mr. J. J. Paterson, the Hon. Mr. C. G. S. Mackie, the Hon. Mr. T. N. Chau, Mr. E. Cock, Mr. D. Drummond, Mr. K. E. Greig, Mr. J. H. Keswick, Mr. S. T. Williamson, and Mr. D. W. Munton.

His Excellency had been pleased to add the names of the following gentlemen to the General Committee:—the Commanding Officer, Hongkong Naval Volunteer Force, Mr. A. Hicks, Mr. D. W. Munton, Lieut. Col. H. L. Munton, and Mr. D. C. Wilson.

FAMOUS PIANISTE INTERVIEWEDMINISTER APPEALS FOR ADVICE

"I believe that to attain any skill as an artist, it is necessary to study the people and music of all nations," said Madame Renée Florigny, the famous French pianiste, when interviewed at the Hongkong Hotel yesterday.

Mme. Florigny, whose knowledge of musical art is comprehensive, is giving a concert at the Hongkong Hotel Roof Garden to-morrow evening. She will include compositions by Mozart, Debussy, Schumann, Lully, Chopin, Liszt and Daquin, as well as many French and Spanish pieces.

For the last fifteen months, Mme. Florigny has been travelling round the world and, in addition to actual touring, she has been studying the different people with whom she has come in contact.

She will leave here on Friday for Manila where several concerts will be given. She will then journey to Indo-China and Java, later returning to Japan.

Wherever concerts have been given, Mme. Florigny has played to large audiences.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

In attempting to understand the peoples of all races, Mme. Florigny has interested herself to a large degree in studying different music and instruments and seeking to interpret the style of each composition. She has studied Oriental music in Morocco, India, Japan and China and has been most interested in different native instruments. Her favourite instrument is the Chinese violin.

In describing Chinese music and her study of it in Peking, Mme. Florigny said:

"I am more than pleased to find the Chinese taking such an interest in their own music and also European compositions. They seem to have fathomed the idioms of the West and display a familiarity with musical forms which speaks volumes for the intelligence of their race." Chinese students of foreign music flock to her concerts in Peking.

BRITISH LABOUR QUESTIONSMINISTER APPEALS FOR ADVICE

London, Jan. 28. Referring to his discussions last week with representatives of national bodies of employers and employees, relating to the possibility of absorbing more workers into employment, and including the proposal for shortening the hours of work Mr. Oliver Stanley stated in the Commons that he was sure the assistance of all who had had actual experience would be available for his guidance in the discussion which he proposed undertaking with representatives of individual industries.

Answering a further Parliamentary question, the Labour Minister said that the negotiations into which the employees' and operatives' organisations had entered, in accordance with last year's Cotton Manufacturing Industry Act with view making a new and comprehensive agreement, had now been practically completed, and he understood that a joint application for making an order under the Act would shortly be made.

H.M.S. HOOD'S DAMAGEINQUIRY BEING HELD AT GIBRALTAR

London, Jan. 28. A complete report of the damage sustained by H.M.S. Hood, which was in collision with H.M.S. Renown during exercises off the coast of Spain on January 21, has not yet been received by the Admiralty.

It is known that the Renown's stern casting is damaged, and it will possibly necessitate her return to England for repairs in due course. Meanwhile the Hood may return to England now to complete her repairs before combining exercises.

A Court of Inquiry is taking place at Gibraltar to-day.—British Wireless.

CEREMONY AT THE REGISTRY

An interesting Australian wedding took place at the Registry yesterday morning, when Mr. Theodore H. S. Allen was married to Miss Florence K. Mullholland. Prior to the ceremony, the couple were entertained on H.M.S. Tamar by Lieut. Beach Thomas, R.N.

Following the ceremony, a reception took place at the Hongkong Hotel, amongst those present being Mr. and Mrs. Murray, Lt. Watkins R.N., Mr. Geoffrey Lammet, Miss Yvonne Shenton, and others.

The happy couple are proceeding to New Guinea on the a.s. Frederick.

ALL-CHINESE FINAL IN SENIOR SHIELD?

Final Ladies' Hockey Trial

TO-DAY'S GAME

By R.H.B.

It is understood that Miss Iris Woolley, the St. Andrew's Club right half-back, who has been playing very well at left half in the Interport trial and practice matches, is to be given a try out at left back in the Colony team at Seokunpon this afternoon.

Miss M. Remedios, of the Recreio, will again be seen in action on the left-wing. She has been nursing an injured hand and has not taken part in the last two trials. On her play, though, she has proved herself a worthy candidate for the left wing vacancy.

For the position of left back, Miss F. Walker, Miss B. Helbing and Miss A. Fowler have already been tried, while Miss P. Gittins and Miss O. Brown have been tested for left wing.

The Shanghai Ladies arrive on Friday and a week from to-day the Interport match—the first in the history of local ladies' hockey—will be played. The selectors will have to make their final selections to-day or it will be leaving matters too late.

Boy Beats A Billiards Record

By FRANK FOXON

London, Jan. 3. A little boy of 14 made a break of 130 yesterday afternoon in the semi-final of the Boys' Championship of billiards at the Burroughes Hall.

He did it in just less than a quarter of an hour.

The boy, Donald Cruickshank, of South Shields, looked the "compeint player."

His opponent was H. Stokes, of Glasgow. Both boys wore knicker-bockers.

This 130 break is a record for the Boys' Championship, the previous best, in this event, being 114 by R. Garfield when playing in the final against Sidney Lee—now a professional—in 1926.

Cruickshank played great billiards while making his record break. His losing hazards were perfect, the plumb centre of the pocket being found nine times out of ten.

That was just good—very good—stroke play, but I was even more impressed by the knowledge shown by Cruickshank of the technique of break-building. He always picked out the right shot when there was an alternative. This North Country lad has a brain as well as a cue.

LIKE A PISTON-ROD

His cue action was exactly right, his arm going back like a piston rod in its precision.

PROSPECTS GOOD

RECORD POSSIBLE FOR S. CHINA

POLICE HOPES

BRIGHTER and brighter are becoming the prospects of an all-Chinese Senior Shield final. Saturday's results determined the appearance in the semi-final of Chinese Athletic and South China "B." If South China "A" beat the Club in the second round, the last four will include three Chinese teams. The lack of the draw, in fact, will make possible a second precedent; the appearance in the final of two teams from the same club. South China "A" have an odds-on chance of

As I See It— By "Veritas"

defeating the Club, and if they can escape their junior outfit in the draw, the betting prospects of the two Caroline Hill teams contesting the final would be even.

THE DRAW FACTOR

An all-Chinese Senior Shield final is not yet on record. South China, in 1929 and again in 1931, when they had but one team entered in this competition, won the trophy, and are, in fact, the only Chinese club to have their name inscribed on the shield. The striking display of Chinese Athletic against the Recreio on Saturday has sent Chinese Senior Shield stock soaring, and only the Police (and possibly the Club) stand in the way of a new record. So far as South China are concerned the draw will mean everything. If, in the event of their surviving the second round, South China "A" meet the Athletic, and the "B," the Police, the chances of the club supplying the finalists will be enhanced. South China "B" are more likely to beat the Police than the Athletic, who, on form, play the same time of game as the South China youngsters, but slightly better. On the other hand I think South China "A" will generally overcome the Athletic because they have a trick or two up their sleeves.

POLICE PROSPECTS

IT should not be thought by the foregoing that I have eliminated all, possessing no chances, the Police and Club. Both teams are capable of beating any of the three Chinese combinations; the Police more especially than the Club. But current form is current form, and as the South China teams appear to be playing as well in the Shield as they are in the League, and the Athletic above league form, there is a slight balance in favour of the Chinese. The Club, of course, have something of a traditional Shield record. That is to say they have won the trophy five times since its inception in 1897. But their

BOXING CHAMPIONS & CHALLENGERS

PETTIFER BUSY: SOUTHERN TITLE FIGHTS

(By Fred Dartnell)

During the year just ended there have been several changes in the boxing championships.

Len Harvey, who held two titles at the beginning of 1934, is now without either. The only two champions who have retained their titles all through the year are Jackie Brown, the flyweight, and Jock McAvoy, King of the middle-weight. Both you will notice belong to Lancashire, which county, according to friend Peter Rudd, is going to carry off the Rugby championship honour this season.

Lancashire have had a pretty good run in recent years with regard to the boxing championships. Two of the titles, the bantam and cruiser-weight are vacant at present, but while the Palatine they do say, and with very good reason, that Johnny King the uncrowned monarch of the division. When Dick Corbett automatically lost his title, through getting "too heavy," King remained, and Petersen represent the best class amongst our championship holders.

Nel Tarleton may expect some troubleome times ahead from such feather-weight rivals as Dick Corbett, Dave Crowley, Benny Caplan and Ginger Foran. The first two are more likely than not between them to bring the title back to London. Kid Berg is not destined to remain very long in the ring.

When Pritchard (Aberystwyth) robbed the international player, Jack Lloyd, of the ball he fell and some of the crowd declared that he was kicked on the knee.

It was then that the crowd rushed on to the field and Lloyd was struck several times before the police escorted him to the dressing room. He returned to the field, but throughout the remainder of the game he was subjected to cat-calling and boozing.

At the close of the match the crowd again attempted to get at Lloyd when he was leaving the field surrounded by police and when he reached his hotel there was a hostile demonstration.

Women's Olympic Games Condemned

"There is no mere for the beaten athlete," said Dr. Adolphe Abrahams, addressing the British Association for Physical Training in London.

He referred to the effect on the nervous system of an athlete forced continuously to live in the limelight. "His life is one continuous anxiety," he said, "realising that the world is a cruel place and that there is no mercy for failure."

MUCH WORSE FOR WOMEN

He (Dr. Abrahams) would expect it to be much worse in the case of the girl or young woman. He visualised a higher type of nervous system much less likely to stand up against the same strain—the hero worship, adultion or other circumstances of violent competition.

For that reason he had never hesitated to speak against Olympic games for women, and he was strongly against the highly competitive lawn tennis.

He confessed that he might be wrong, and spoke of a woman doctor who had told him that he was, and said that she held that women on the whole were more flexible and adaptable than men.

"I may be perhaps old-fashioned," Dr. Abrahams said, "but I must say that when I visualise the appearance of collapse and exhaustion in a male an unpleasant enough spectacle in some circumstances. I cannot bring myself to believe that it cannot be worse in the case of a woman."

Speaking of smoking by athletes, he said so far as he could see there was no clear evidence of tobacco having had any degenerative effect.

BIG BADMINTON MATCH TO-MORROW

ELIOT HALL AND THE RECREIO

VARSITY TEAM FAVoured

COURT ADVANTAGE

(By "Veritas")

Recreio "A" meet Eliot Hall in the first division men's doubles of the badminton league to-morrow, and it is anticipated that Pokfulam will be invaded by numbers of enthusiasts anxious to see the two strongest teams in this division in conflict.

Both are as yet undefeated, and there is no questioning the fact that the championship rests between them. The Eliot Hall team, comprising Hongkong University men, most of whom learnt their badminton in Malaya, have, in the course of the last two seasons, recorded wins against the Recreio in friendly matches.

Since then, however, the Portuguese have made tremendous strides, and are certain to offer brilliant opposition to the Varsity players.

COURT ADVANTAGE

The advantage of playing on their own court, which has a somewhat low ceiling, thus nullifying lobbing, may be the determining factor in favour of Eliot Hall. The players themselves adopt the short game and no team have equals in the Colony. In this type of play, against this the Recreio have well controlled but highly developed speed, and are particularly severe overhead.

The match should provide interesting and spectacular entertainment, and it is unlikely that either team will win by more than the odd game.

Owing to the desire of the players to watch this match, the "B" Division game on Wednesday between Recreio "B" and the Victoria Recreation Club has been mutually postponed.

Medway & Suffolk Fail To Score

A rugby game between the Medway and the Suffolk at Happy Valley yesterday resulted in a draw, both teams failing to score.

C. Smith at full back was the outstanding player for the Suffolk, and Willis also put in some good work. Amongst the Medway representatives St. Lt. Knox was the pick, and the forwards all played a good game, in contrast to the Suffolk pack who put up a rather poor showing.

The teams were:

Petersen Engaged To Beauty Of Eighteen

London, Jan. 3. Jack Petersen, the 23-year-old British and Empire heavy-weight boxing champion, is engaged to Miss Betty Williams, aged 18, daughter of Mr. T. Baker Williams, a retired Cardiff auctioneer and accountant.

The official announcement was made yesterday, but Miss Williams, asked by our Cardiff Correspondent, when the wedding would take place, replied, "Not for a long time."

Miss Williams, whom Petersen met at a dance 18 months ago, is of striking beauty, fair, and of medium height.

She is, however, an all-round sports and opened air girl, and a good swimmer and hockey-player.

AUSTRALIAN CRICKET RECORD

335 RUNS FOR 7TH WICKET

Sydney, Jan. 3. C. W. Andrews and E. C. Bensted established a new Australian record here to-day with a seventh-wicket partnership of 335 runs for Queensland against New South Wales in a Sheffield match.

This is only nine runs short of world record.

Andrews played a brilliant innings of 253. He hit 20 fours during a stay of nearly seven hours.

Bensted's contribution to the partnership was 155, which contained 19 fours. He was concerned in the previous record for the seventh wicket, with K. Moslop, four years ago, when Queensland played South Australia.

To-day the New South Wales bowling was weak. The absence of O'Reilly and McCabe was sorely felt, and with runs coming freely in all parts of the field the "Hillites" began to voice their feelings.

They called on Oldfield to send for Miss Palmer, the New South Wales girl who took 7 wickets for 18 against England recently in the first women's Test match.

Goalkeeper Accused Of Manslaughter

An incident at a football match, Donavan volunteered a statement to the effect that the game proceeded in quite a friendly way and, when the ball was dropping about three yards away, he ran and dived for it, falling flat on his face.

Cole died after a football match at Swansea, on Dec. 13, between the Cwm Athletic and South Wales Transport A.F.C.

Donovan was goalkeeper for Cwm and Cole was a member of the other team.

Edward John Morris, a spectator, who said he was standing near the goal post, and Cole accidentally kicked Donavan, and that then the latter told Cole that he would "have it in for him."

Later, he said, Donovan ran out from the goal straight at Cole and raised his knee, at the same time striking him with his fist. Both players fell. Cole died in Swansea Hospital two days later.

Witnesses for the defence attributed Cole's death to an accident.

William James Gow, the referee, said he only saw Donovan fall on Cole in the course of play.

Duration Point To Be Considered

"BODYLINE" NOW DEAD

Sydney, Jan. 3. The Australian Board of Control has decided to make no comment on the bodyline incident, mentioned in Mr. Bushby's, the Australian manager's, report to it on the Australian tour of this year.

In his report Mr. Bushby read a letter from the M.C.C. containing an apology from the Nottinghamshire Cricket Club for the manner in which Voce bowled against the Australian team.

After considering this, and Mr. Bushby's confidential report, the board decided to make no comment at all. "So far as we are concerned," said Mr. W. H. Jeunes, the secretary of the board, "the matter is over."

The Board has deferred its consideration of the new l.b.w. rule, put forward by the M.C.C., until its next meeting.

It acceded to the M.C.C.'s request that the team to tour Australia during the 1936-37 season should leave Australia a week earlier than did the 1932-33 team, for the purpose of visiting New Zealand.

A sub-committee was appointed to consider, and report to the Board, what recommendations should be made by the Board to the M.C.C. with regard to the duration of future Test matches in England. Consideration will be given to the following conditions:

- (1) Conditions as played this year.
- (2) Playing all Tests to a finish.
- (3) Extending the first four Tests to five days and playing the fifth to a finish if, at the end of the fourth, the difference of matches won is not greater than one.

Mr. Jeunes announced that the reports of the manager and treasurer had been considered, and that the Board had arrived at various recommendations as regards the conduct of tours for future consideration.

It was announced at the close of the meeting by Mr. Jeunes that W. M. Woodfull, captain of the Australian team, had been asked by the Board to submit, in writing, any views he may have had in connection with the tour which he might like to bring to their notice, as the Board intended to discuss his views and invite him to attend the next meeting at Melbourne should it be considered advisable. Woodfull did not submit any statement.

The Board allocated a further sum of £5,200, the remainder of the profits of the tour in England this year, less the amount taken for working expenses, to the States, bringing the sum granted up to £26,000. The next meeting of the Board will be held in September at Melbourne.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

For a number of years tournament play in England was unpopular, but since development of the British Bridge League, tournaments now are almost as popular here as in America.

I have asked some of the British authorities in England to send me an interesting hand occasionally. To-day's hand was written up by Capt. Ewart Kempson, who participated in the American Bridge League tournament at Asbury Park last August. The hand was played in the Liberal Cup Tournament in a match between teams captained by Frank Neatby and J. R. Bell.

The Bidding.

The bidding I give is the way I believe most American authorities would bid the hand. However, the English bidding was slightly different.

When West bid a spade, North overcalled with two spades. We do not believe in using a cue bid until after a suit has been shown. Also, as the hand was played in England, when a six-heart contract was reached, East doubled.

We do not double a six contract unless it is certain that the contract will be defeated, because usually, if a six contract is defeated, you will receive a good score without doubling. But if you double and they make the contract, you are bound to be below average on the board.

By doubling, we get the information that South has a four-card suit and now, when North cue bids in spades, he tells his partner quite a story. First, that he has no losers in spades; second, that he has normal support for his partner's bid and, most important of all, he is willing to try for a slam.

Due to the fact that East doubled North's club bid, and that North made a cue bid in spades, West thought that his safest opening was the singleton king of clubs, which North won with the ace.

Before attempting to ruff the clubs, the declarer must take two rounds of trump, and now he should lead the five of clubs. When East plays the four spot, declarer should let the trick ride, discarding a spade.

The reason is that he is perfectly willing to have the opponents win one club trick. The clubs are solid from the five to the nine spot. Two clubs can be ruffed in dummy.

If East covered with the ten spot, the declarer would ruff and would still have the same play, losing only one club trick, thereby making his contract of six-odd.

THE INDIA BILL

PRIDE OF PLACE IN HEAVY SESSION

London, Jan. 28.
A crowded session of unusual importance will open with the re-assembly of the House of Commons this afternoon and the House of Lords to-morrow.

India will be the dominating question during the next seven or eight months, despite the number of domestic measures, such as the Housing Bill, which normally would have pride of place.

The second reading debate on the massive India Bill will begin next week.

In the meantime, the Wavertree by-election, where a split in the Conservative vote over India has occurred, will keep the issue before the public, as official Conservative headquarters and the India Defence League have precipitated an array of speakers in the battle on opposite sides.

The result of the election will be known on February 5 or 6, in the middle of the India debate.

To-day's sitting will open with questions on a variety of subjects, after which the House will discuss the administration of the Unemployment Assistance Board.
Grants for special areas will be discussed to-morrow, while the second reading of the Housing
Bill will be taken on Wednesday or Thursday.

With these measures, also the estimates for the Budget, the Herring Bill, legislation to extend unemployment insurance to agricultural workers, besides discussions of general policy,
Parliament will have one of the busiest sessions in its history.—
Reuter.

Long Debates

London, Jan. 28.
Debates on the Government of India Bill will make heavy demands on the time of the Parliamentary session, which resumes to-day after the Christmas recess.

The second reading will be moved next week, and although it is assumed that arrangements will be reached to avoid a protracted examination of details, consideration of this measure will inevitably engage the attention of the House of Commons for several weeks.

There are also domestic Bills of first class importance awaiting examination. The Government's

DOLLAR SOARING

FRANCE CONTINUES TO BE UNDervalued

London, Jan. 28.
The American dollar is now worth
2s. 6d. more than gold, while the franc continues to be undervalued in terms of the metal. The London price of gold, which is fixed by supply and demand, represents a discount of 2s. 6d. on the dollar, 4.82%, but a premium of 10d. over the franc, 74.75.

This is due to a persistent demand for dollars by speculators who are scared of the possible consequences of an adverse decision in the Gold Clause case.

Arbitrators are unwilling to ship gold to New York, which would normally rectify the situation, owing to the remote possibility of a change in the United States gold price.

Consequently, there is no check on the appreciation of the dollar, as revealed by the Paris-New York cross rate soaring 30 centimes above gold export point, apart from the intervention of the American Exchange Fund, which is recently reported to have acquired $300,000, 000 worth of continental currencies.
Exchanges are weaker. Members of the Gold Bloc are now quoted at gold import point in Paris.

London circles are not perturbed regarding the short term outlook of the franc, stressing the purely technical aspect of the present emergency.

On the other hand, nervousness persists regarding the Belgians, in connection with rumoured Cabinet difficulties.—Reuter.

Proposals to end the evils of overcrowding, contained in the Housing Bill, will be debated on the second reading this week, and in order to permit of a maximum time for the India Bill, it may be sent to the Standing Committee for further consideration.

A strong demand is being made for prompt action on the Herring
Bill, and several other measures are awaiting attention. In addition, the programme for the session
includes the Budget and Finance Bill, and debates on Supply. It is anticipated that the Commons will also demand opportunities for discussing large issues of general policy, particularly international affairs.—British Wireless.

He is survived by his widow and six children, four sons and two daughters.

The funeral will take place today, passing the Monument at 5.30 p.m.

LABOUR PARLEYS

U.S. EFFORTS TO OBLIGATE STRIKES IN SPRING

Washington, Jan. 28.
Miss Frances Perkins, the Secretary for Labour, is planning a Conference in February of the heads of 48 State federations of labour in order to bring pressure to bear on the State Legislatures for uniform social-security legislation.

Mrs. Perkins will at the same time endeavour to learn the labour grievances in anticipation of the usual run of strikes during the Spring.

The American Federation of Labour executives will also meet in conference in the near future, in order to discuss labour alliances to combat the industrial "Gentleman's Agreement" to block unionism.

It is learnt that Mr. William
Green, President of the American Federation of Labour, opposes the alliances, fearing that they might get out of control and result in a general strike throughout the United States.

If this occurs, Mr. Green fears that unionism will be irreparably disrupted.

The A.F.L., at its forthcoming conference, will also seek a compulsory 30-hour week, and will oppose the payment of only $50 a month for Relief workers.—United Press.

DEATH OF MR. C. M. C. VIEIRA-RIBEIRO

PORtUGUESE RESIDENT PASSES AWAY

The many friends of Mr. Carlos de Monte Carmelo Viera-Ribeiro will regret to learn of his death, which took place at 10 o'clock last night. He died of heart failure on the eve of his retirement from the Standard Oil Company of New York, in which firm he has served for the past 25 years. He was a popular member of the Club Lusitano and a committee member of the Socorros Mutuos.

He is survived by his widow and six children, four sons and two daughters.

The funeral will take place today, passing the Monument at 5.30 p.m.

"DOWN WITH BABY STARVERS!"

DEMONSTRATION IN COMMONS

DISGRACEFUL ATTACK ON PREMIER

London, Jan. 28.

One of the most violent disturbances ever to occur in the public gallery of the House of Commons broke out to-night during the debate on the supplementary estimate for £5,000,000 to be voted towards the newly-created Unemployment Assistance Board, in order to standardise throughout the country the rates of assistance for able-bodied unemployed who have exhausted their unemployment benefits.

The Government's proposals were warmly criticised on the ground that they were inadequate by the Labourite, Mr. George Buchanan of Glasgow, who started the House by a virulent attack on the Premier, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, who was not present.

Mr. MacDonald was described as a mountebank, a swine, a low and dirty cur; who ought to be horse-whipped and slung out of public life.

Mr. Buchanan's outburst was followed by an outrageous scene in the public gallery where women rose, screaming, "Down with the National Government!" "Down with the baby-starvers!"

The demonstrators were immediately ejected by the House of Commons officers, but others who had at first appeared docile enough and had not joined in the shouting, took up the game, and constantly interrupted proceedings in the House.

Pandemonium ensued for some minutes. After sixty persons had been taken away and the shouting had not stopped, the Speaker finally ordered the whole gallery cleared.—Reuter.

Routine In Commons

HOLIDAY FOR MAY 6

ABGLO-IRISH AGREEMENT

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1934. Received, January 28, 8.15 a.m.)

London, Jan. 28.

At the re-assembly of the House of Commons to-day, the Prime Minister, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald announced that May 6 would be observed as a "paid holiday" for all Government employees, in connection with the King's Silver Jubilee.

A few minutes later, Mr. J. H. Thomas, "Dominion's" Secretary, gave the House even more cheering news. Referring to the Anglo-Irish agreement for the exchange of exports of coal and cattle, he estimated that nearly 1,750,000 tons of coal annually would be shipped from England to the Free State under this arrangement, which would represent the full employment of 5,000 miners.

Mr. Thomas described the agreement as satisfactory to both sides and distinctly beneficial to Britain.

If, he said, the arrangement could be extended in a way which would lead to the settlement of wider and bigger political issues, the Government would welcome it. The door was open, he said.

Asked whether any decision had been made regarding the building of a sister ship to the gigantic Cunarder, Queen Mary, a Government spokesman replied in the negative.—Reuter Special.

EMPIRE AIRWAYS EXPANSION

CO-ORDINATION OF SERVICES

EXPERTS LEAVE LONDON

London, Jan. 28.

According to the Daily Telegraph a joint delegation from the Air Ministry and the Post Office will leave Croydon by an Imperial liner to-day en route to India, Ceylon, Singapore and Australia.

The delegation will discuss with local experts the ground organisation and co-ordination of the Empire's air services, in furtherance of the scheme of development recently announced by Sir Philip Sassoon in the House of Commons.

The delegates will be: Mr. F. G. Bertram, M.P., Deputy Director of Civil Aviation, Mr. T. L. Guinness, M.P., and prominent industrialist, Brig.-Gen. Sir F. H. Williamson, Director of Postal Services since 1923, and Sir Edward Campbell, Parliamentary Private-Secretary to H. M. Postmaster-General.—Reuter.

RESTORING PAY CUT

UNITED STATES SENATE ACTION

(Special to "Telegraph")

London, Jan. 28.

Washington, Jan. 28. The Senate to-day voted to restore the remitting five per cent. of the Federal Government employees' pay cuts on April 1.

Federal Government employees had two wage cuts during the state of financial emergency with which the Roosevelt Administration was faced when it came into power. The first cut was restored some months ago.—United Press.

IMPROVED INDUSTRY

ENCOURAGING U.S. INDEX

Washington, Jan. 28.

The Federal Reserve Monthly Survey gives the index of industrial output for the month of December, 1934, as 85 per cent. of the 1929-1928 average, as compared with 74 per cent. for November.

The Survey states that wholesale farm and food prices advanced considerably, and also said that steel, automobile, woolen and textile activity increased contrary to the seasonal tendency during the months mentioned.—United Press.

U.S. AIR DEFENCE SCHEME

HUGE FORCE PLANNED FOR USE IN EMERGENCY

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1934. Received, January 28, 8.15 a.m.)

Washington, Jan. 28. The United States will depend upon an emergency fighting and transport branch of the Air Force for the protection of possessions abroad, and for the defence of her own coast, should the Navy suffer a serious defeat in time of war.

It is learned to-day that the Department of War considers that the General Headquarters Air Force must be looked upon as the first line of defence for Puerto Rico, Hawaii, Alaska, and possibly the Philippines Islands.

The War Department plans to maintain the Air Force constantly at full strength, contrasted with an infantry, artillery and cavalry skeletonised force for peace time.

Treating on the subject of defence, the War Department contends that if the American Navy were beaten in an engagement with a foreign power, and enemy troops gained a foothold on the mainland on United States insular possessions, the Air Force could be despatched immediately to prevent any enlargement of the captured area until ground forces had arrived.

(The question of army transport to insular possessions in case of a naval loss, is not dealt with).

The Army is studying plans for reaching the Philippines by way of American-held islands, in transport planes. The first step will probably be the creation of a seaplane base at Wake Island, in the Hawaiian group, 2,200 miles from California; and a third base in the East Philippines.

The War Department plans contemplate the construction of five wings of 200 planes each, located on the mainland of the United States, but constantly prepared to fly to any threatened area.—United Press.

SHANGHAI MARKET REPORT

FOREIGN EXCHANGE RATES FIRMER

Shanghai, Jan. 29.

Rates on the Foreign Exchange Market here this morning are a shade firmer than yesterday's close but there is practically no business being done.

Yesterday $520,000 arrived from Hongkong, but $500,000 was shipped to Tientsin and $100,000 to Amoy.

Rates continued steady on the foreign exchange market here at 10.30 a.m.

Conditions remained unchanged from the opening, and the market is extremely quiet.

Rates remained firm at 12.30 p.m. but trading has been very dull with few buyers of exchange throughout the morning.

Later, the foreign exchange market was slightly easier this afternoon. The easy tendency is attributable to a slackening demand due to the expectation that rates will decline after the Chinese New Year. Also Chinese Speculators are inclined to buy exchange despite the fact that so little business is passing.—United Press.

Two unemployed men, Yau Kam-shu and Yu Fok, appeared before Mr. W. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, on charge of possession of two weapons demanded for the discharge of gas cartridges and an 18 cartridge in Cross Street, without authority from His Excellency the Governor. The first defendant admitted the offence, but the second defendant denied it. On the application of Detective Sergeant Fletches, the case was remanded until noon on Thursday, when the case will be heard.—United Press.

Leading counsel in the Hauptmann trial. Left, Mr. Edward Kelly, for the defence; right, State Attorney General Willentz, who leads the prosecution.

Hauptmann Defences Damaged

TRYING CROSS-EXAMINATION POINTS FOR PROSECUTION

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1934. Received, January 28, 8.15 a.m.)

Flemington, Jan. 28.

The relentless pounding of questions, in an attempt to trip Bruno Hauptmann into contradictions, has brought a certain measure of success to Attorney-General Willentz of New Jersey, prosecuting the charge of kidnapping and murder here.

Mr. Willentz to-day forced the prisoner, Hauptmann, to admit, first, that he kept false financial accounts in order to prevent his wife learning that he had money; and, second, that the alleged diary containing the word "bond," which the prosecution alleges means "boat," was really written in 1931, and not 1926, as Hauptmann first declared.

The prosecution is attempting to show that the misspelled words in the ransom notes, written by the kidnappers of the Lindbergh baby three years ago, might have been Hauptmann's. Hauptmann has insisted that he is able to spell and that his diary, which contained many spelling errors, was written years ago, before he was so well acquainted with the English language.

Iddon failed to score and amid tremendous excitement, the last English wicket dropped with but half an over to go.

Constantine followed up his batting performances with some great bowling which earned him three wickets for 11 runs in 14 overs, nine of which were maidens. Scores:

ENGLAND DEFEATED IN TEST

WEST INDIES' SUCCESS

THRILLING FINISH

Port of Spain, Jan. 28. Another sensational collapse by the English batsmen, saw the West Indies win the Second Test Match to-day by 217 runs after a thrilling finish. The last wicket fell when there was only half a minute left for play.

Outplayed from the time R. E. S. Wyatt decided to give the West Indies first knock, the English team was soundly beaten. Twice the keen West Indies attack upset the leading batsmen, whereas the winners themselves scored comfortably. This result makes the countries level, England having won the first Test at Barbados.

When the West Indies resumed their second innings this morning they were 194 runs ahead with seven wickets in hand. On a good wicket, the batsmen continued to pile on the runs steadily. George Headley, not out 69 overnight, plodded along to score 93 in 220 minutes, before standing in front of a straight one from Smith. Headley, although playing correct cricket, was very subdued. His best hits were eight boundaries.

Subsequently Constantine and Rolfe Grant levered things up somewhat the former hitting up a valuable 81 and Grant 38. This enabled the West Indies to apply the declaration at lunch time with the score at 280 for 6, leaving England to amass 825 to win.

Wyatt sent in Townsend and Farrimond to open the English innings, but although the Derbyshire man stayed on to score 86, the rest of the team failed miserably. Smith was run out after scoring three and Headley suffered a similar fate immediately after reaching double figures. Headley, Wyatt and Ames lost in quick succession, and although Leyland made a great effort to stem the tide, he left just before the end.

Iddon failed to score and amid tremendous excitement, the last English wicket dropped with but half an over to go.

Constantine followed up his batting performances with some great bowling which earned him three wickets for 11 runs in 14 overs, nine of which were maidens. Scores:

REVIVING INDUSTRY

Stopa have been taken to revive the cod fisheries which constitute the staple industry, and it is generally seen that the 1934 season was better than 1933.

There has been a reorganisation of revenue and expenditure. Many customs duties have been reduced, but the increasing prosperity is largely neutralised by the decrease in revenue. However, the situation is more hopeful than when the budget was prepared six months ago.

INCOME INCREASES

Reverting to the financial condition of the Soviet, he asserted that it had vastly improved since the 1931 Congress. The gold income had been multiplied six-fold in that time, he declared, and foreign debts had been decreased by three-fourths of their total.

Before he concluded, he laid stress upon the fact that the Red Army had greatly increased its mechanised equipment, until it was now one of the most efficiently served fighting organisations in the world.—United Press.

EXPANDING ARMY

Moscow, Jan. 28. During the past four years, the Soviet has increased its mechanised army fourfold, declared M. Vlacheslav Molotov, Chairman of the Council of People's Commissars, (a post corresponding to that of Premier abroad) when addressing the All-Union Congress of the Soviets here to-day.

The army, he said, now possessed larger numbers of artillery units, tanks and aeroplanes, together with better defensive fortifications on the East frontier.

He admitted that the first year plan had not been completely fulfilled owing to the unforeseen increases in the expenditure for defence.

Some of the delegates to the Congress travelled hundreds of miles over ice with reindeer teams and dog-sleds to attend the Congress.

The 2,000 delegates cheered Stalin uninterruptedly for five minutes, when the "Iron Master" appeared on the speaker's platform.—Reuter.

Wan Ying, aged 22, unemployed, appeared before before Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, charged with breaking a signboard from No. 884, Nathan Road, the property of the Ho Af Teck Company. It was alleged that the defendant was seen by a detective at 4 a.m. to be immediately driving the signboard and ran away but eventually caught. Sentence of six weeks' hard labour was passed. A. W. Smith prosecuted.

Appearing before Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning in answer to summons, for driving a motor vehicle on Boundary Street, without a mire on January 13, E. Basto of No. 148, Boundary Street was fined 55.

M. MOLOTOV BOASTS OF ARMY'S POWER

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1934. Received Jan. 28, 8.07 a.m.)

Moscow, Jan. 28.

M. Vlacheslav Molotov, Chairman of the Council of People's Commissars, one of the most powerful men in Russia, opening the Seventh All-Union Congress of Soviets to-day, at which 2,000 delegates were present, challenged the foreign critics of the recent political executions which followed the murder of the official, Kirov.

He declared the Government would continue to mete out similar punishment to all its enemies of the same order, in spite of the protests from abroad.

M. Molotov said that Russia's relations with China were good. He denied foreign reports that the Soviet Union was attempting to Sovietise Sinkiang.

It was his opinion, he said, that some military elements in Japan wanted war, but the Soviet's

EMPIRE SUMMER SCHOOL

LECTURE COURSE AT OXFORD

ATTRACTIVE PROGRAMME

London. It is possible that some Overseas readers who are coming over this year may be interested in attending the Third Empire Summer School at Oxford, which runs from Saturday July 13 to Saturday July 27. Here are the essential facts:

The School is open to all men and women interested in the British Empire. Attendance may be for the fortnight or for either week.

Speakers and subjects are:

July 13-20.—Rt. Hon. Oliver Stanley (Minister of Labour); Most Hon. Marquis of Lothian; Sir John Marriott: The Crown; Professor J. H. Morgan: The Judicial Committee of the Privy Council; Rt. Hon. Lord Bledisloe: New Zealand; Sir Alan Anderson: The Mercantile Marine; Mr. Handley Page: The Future Development of Aircraft; Sir Louis Frank: Belgian Colonial Administration; Mr. G. E. Fayle: Sea Routes of the Empire; Mrs. Alfred Watt: With the Empire's Countries.

July 20-27.—Rt. Hon. W. Runciman (President of Board of Trade); Rt. Hon. Sir Arthur Steel-Maitland; Sir Walter Lawrence; The King; Sir D. Somervell (Solicitor-General): British Commonwealth Relations; Rt. Hon. Lord Amulree: Newfoundland; Professor R. Coupland: Dominion Statistics, 1914-31; Sir Edward Grigg: Agriculture; Admiral Sir Howard Kelly: The Navy and the Empire; Air Commodore J. A. Chamier: Civil Aviation and the Empire; Sir Arnold Wilson: The Suez Canal and the Empire; Miss Gladys Pott: The Migration of Women; and other subjects and speakers:

There will be a number of garden parties; visits to colleges and other places of interest (including Windsor Castle); and facilities for bathing, boating, lawn tennis, and golf. The Union Society is kindly allowing members of the School to use its club-rooms. Fee: 21s. for either week; 36s. for fortnight. Railway tickets to Oxford, at a single fare, and a third for the return journey, will be obtainable from any station in Great Britain.

Gentlemen will be lodged in Wadham College or St. John's College (both close to Rhodes House) at a charge of 4 guineas per week, including bedroom and sitting-room, bath, breakfast, luncheon and dinner. Gentlemen unaccompanied by ladies are strongly advised to stay at Wadham or St. John's.

For ladies, married couples, and gentlemen who do not wish to stay at Wadham or St. John's, the following accommodation (within easy reach of Rhodes House on foot) is available.

At Somerville College (July 20-27 only) bed and breakfast will be provided at a cost of £2. 2s. Od. for the week, single room; if all meals are required the charge will be £3. 17s. Od.

Hostels for ladies only are available: bed and breakfast £2. 2s. Od; full board £3; single rooms only.

Accommodation may be obtained in Boarding Houses at charges varying from £1. 4s. 6d. per week for bed and breakfast to £3. 7s. 6d. for bed, bath and full meals; single or double rooms.

Accommodation can also be obtained at Hotels, the charges varying from £1. 18s. 6d. per week for bed and breakfast to £7. 0s. Od. per week; single or double rooms.

Application for accommodation should be made to the Royal Empire Society at 17 Carlton House Terrace, London, S.W.1.

JAPAN'S PLACE IN THE WORLD

PROBLEMS MUST BE APPRECIATED

London. Dr. S. Heaslett, Bishop in South Tokyo, who is now in England on leave has declared that "the future of civilisation centres in the Pacific and the claims of Japan as a World Power cannot be ignored."

"Nothing would please the Japanese more than a better understanding of their national problems by the people of Great Britain. The occupation of Manchukuo was a case of doing the right thing—in the wrong way."

"Japan's anxiety in regard to China is that China may be and is likely to constitute a menace directly she is organised. Therefore Japan wishes to have a guiding hand in the organisation for defensive and peaceful reasons."

"I can safely affirm that the Japanese people want peace, and though Japan is unwilling to go to war with any nation yet she will make war if driven to extremes, to procure safety for her nationals. The people are behind the Government in their Manchukuo policy. If Russia or America could crush Japan the effect would only last from ten to twelve years—the process would have to be continually repeated."

Constable's Error

HUNTING FOR STOLEN CAR

INNOCENT DRIVER

The hearing was concluded at York County Court recently of the case in which Joseph Southerton, manufacturers' agent, of Billet Road, Walthamstow, claimed £100 damages for injuries to himself and his motor-car when a police constable on the look-out for two stolen motor-cars swung a storm lamp through the windscreen and Southerton's face was cut by the glass.

The action was against Police constable Pickup, of the York Police. He was on the Dringhouses road, standing between red hurricane lamps, intercepting traffic in each direction. Southerton admitted seeing the lamps and figure which he said he thought was that of a night watchman. He assumed that road repairs were in progress and was going to pass on his right when he found he could get through on the left and swerved back. A lamp was then lifted violently from the ground and came through his windscreen.

Police constable Pickup said that red lamps were the customary police night signal at York. He had stopped something like 20 cars previously that night by waving a lamp at them. He did the same in this case, and as the car swerved and came straight at him, so that he had to jump out of the way, he threw the lamp at the car to stop it, because he thought it was one of the stolen cars.

Judge Stewart gave judgment for Southerton with £75 damages and costs.

His Honour said that police officers had onerous duties to perform and on the whole performed them well, but in this case a young officer had got an inflated idea about this vehicle, and in his (Judge Stewart's) opinion his action would require a good deal of justification. His Honour referred to the dangerous consequences which might have ensued on flinging a litigated paraffin lamp at a moving car in order to stop it in such a way that it hit the windscreen carelessly and recklessly, and commented on the terrible menace which the desecration of the steering of cars in this way would constitute.

THOUSANDS ENJOY WINTER SPORT ANYONE CAN LEARN ON NURSERY SLOPES

By WILFRID TREMELLEN

Thousands of British people are travelling to Switzerland for the Winter Sports. Snow has at last fallen heavily in Switzerland, and the sports are in full swing. Twice as many trains have been run from England as compared with last year.

"BUT," you object, "I've never seen a ski, except on my way through to the military department—and then I didn't stop."

You may not have seen a luge, either, but it hardly matters. Because the winter sports folk are a cheery crowd, and it is difficult to feel a stranger among them. The jolly old man in the corner seat at Victoria constitutes himself your "uncle" as soon as you have given him permission to smoke, and although his labels show he is going to a different centre, what he does not know about the place you are bound to be negligible.

PLACE FOR BEGINNERS

On your first morning in Switzerland you go down to the village to select ski and sticks at the "Sport Shop." For two or three francs you can hire all you want for a fortnight. Your travelling companions of yesterday, all talking at once, explain how you find your right size, and soon you are all plank-planking down the frozen road towards the Nursery Slopes. It reminds you of the time when you were a child and tied date-boxes to your feet.

You climb a modest slope and shove yourself off with your sticks. Now you go whizzing down in fine style, breathless with the exhilaration of it until, after attaining what seems a fearful speed, you wobble, recover, wobble again and fall, losing your sticks and tumbling over and over. Astonishing! You sit up, wipe the snow from your eyes, and find that, though the mountains all seem to have changed places, you have not hurt yourself in the least.

EASY TO LEARN

After a few more descents you find that if you keep your knees "loose" they act as springs and you can keep your balance over the irregularities of the slope.

While you are struggling to your feet an old hand comes up with a word of advice. "The way to avoid falling," he says, giving you an

MONKS' ACTION FAILS

"TRAPPIST BEER" TRADE NAME

Brussels, Jan. 2. The Antwerp Commercial Court has non-suited the Trappist Fathers in a claim for 250,000 francs for unlawful competition made by them against a brewer of Brussel, near Antwerp, who sold beer under the name of Trappist Beer.

For the brewer it was contended that the name "Trappist" was not a special mark, but applied to several beers made in different

Trappist monasteries; that the Trappists were not traders, and therefore could not complain of competition on the part of a real trader.

The Court, in a closely reasoned judgment, agreed entirely with the brewer's submissions. It held that the Trappists were an association not for purposes of profit, and that their ideal was to live according to the precepts of St. Benedict, to do charitable work, and to propagate the Catholic Faith. Though it could be admitted that a religious community might carry on a trade to supply its charitable funds, it was inadmissible that such a community should place itself on the same footing as real traders, whose business was carried on exclusively for profit.

The Trappists were ordered to pay the costs of the action.

HOUSING SCHEME

FURNITURE BY HIRE-PURCHASE

Leeds. Further plans have been made in connexion with the £12,000,000 housing scheme of the Leeds Corporation.

Additional particulars of the hire-purchase furnishing plan which has caused so much comment have been given by the chairman of the Housing Committee, the Rev. C. Jenkinson, who indicated that the type of furniture under the hire-purchase agreement would be similar to that displayed in the exhibition houses. Everything which is considered essential in the way of furniture and furnishings is shown in a price-list which has been issued for complete furnishings on the hire-purchase system. A reduction is made where the tenant is in a position to pay cash.

It has also been decided to build flats to accommodate 800 families in the Quarry Hill district, which was until recently one of the slums of the city. The scheme is an ambitious one and includes a community centre, swimming baths and wash-houses, accommodation for perambulators, a central station for the disposal of refuse, 20 shops, and a children's bathing pool.

Another tender has been accepted, the Woolly Construction Company, Limited, of Leeds, having secured the contract for the erection of 208 dwellings at £70,592.

The chairman states that the lists of application for corporation houses have now had to be closed. No houses will be available apart from those needed for slum-clearance purposes and the 1,000 which are to be erected under the non-subsidy plan.

British Tommies (Top) receiving a jovial Nazi salute from Saarlanders as they prepared to take up their billets in Saarbrücken upon arrival to patrol the Saar valley during the League of Nations plebiscite period. They immediately began to make friends among the townsfolk who accorded them a cordial reception. Two of them are pictured below in difficulty over the language while picking out the inevitable picture postcards to send home.

The worst Canadian railway accident in 40 years occurred near the little town of Dundas, in the province of Ontario, as holiday celebrants returned to their homes Christmas night. A fast express train, swerving into a siding instead of passing on the main line, tore into the rear coaches of a holiday special, standing on the siding to allow the express right of way, reducing them to a mass of splintered wreckage, killing 15 and injuring 35. Frantic work by the early birds of Dundas, by the railway's wrecking crew, volunteers, doctors and nurses succeeded in saving many more lives. Above is shown a view of the debris after the huge locomotive tore its way through the excursion coaches.

FAMOUS PIANISTE INTERVIEWED

Studies People & Music of All Nations

"I believe that to attain any skill as an artist, it is necessary to study the people and music of all nations," said Madame Renée Florigny, the famous French pianiste, when interviewed at the Hongkong Hotel yesterday.

Mme. Florigny, whose knowledge of musical art is comprehensive, is giving a concert at the Hongkong Hotel Roof Garden to-morrow evening. She will include compositions by Mozart, Debussy, Schumann, Lully, Chopin, Liszt and Daquin, as well as many French and Spanish pieces.

For the last fifteen months, Mme. Florigny has been travelling round the world and, in addition to actual touring, she has been studying the different people with whom she has come in contact.

She will leave here on Friday for Manila where several concerts will be given. She will then journey to Indo-China and Java, later returning to Japan.

Wherever concerts have been given, Mme. Florigny has played to large audiences.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

In attempting to understand the peoples of all races, Mme. Florigny has interested herself to a large degree in studying different music and instruments and seeking to interpret the style of each composition.

She has studied Oriental music in Morocco, India, Japan and China and has been most interested in different native instruments. Her favourite instrument is the Chinese violin.

In describing Chinese music and her study of it in Peking, Mme. Florigny said:

"I am more pleased to find the Chinese taking such an interest in their own music and also European compositions. They seem to have fathomed the idioms of the West and display a familiarity with musical forms which speaks volumes for the intelligence of their race." Chinese students of foreign music flock to her concerts in Peking and Tientsin.

POLICE OFFICERS CHARGED

SEQUEL TO MOTOR FATALITY

A sequel to the recent Coroner's inquiry into the death of Pang Young, a coolie, in Pottinger Street on December 16, was the appearance before Mr. W. Schofield, at the Central Magistrate this morning, of Police Sergeant Efremoff, summoned for having driven private car No. 3664 without an appropriate driver's licence at 1.20 a.m. on December 16, in Pottinger Street, and with falling to make a report of an accident.

The defendant admitted both summonses, saying that as he thought the accident was such a trivial matter, and there was not much damage done to the car, he need not report it.

Mr. Schofield fined defendant $10 on the first summons, and $20 on the second, remarking that it was more serious because he was a Police Officer and should have known better.

Sub-Inspector Dredge was also summoned for having allowed an unlicensed driver (Sergeant Efremoff) to drive the car, and Inspector Alexander asked for a week's remand, no defendant was in hospital.

The request was granted.

NAVAL OFFICER FINED

Lt. J. N. Garnett, Royal Navy, was fined a total of $30 on three summonses of having allowed an unlicensed driver to drive private car No. 1738 at Repulse Bay on December 24 last year; driving without an appropriate licence; and failing to report a collision with bus No. 2450.

Defendant said he bought the car a fortnight previous to the incident, and was going to take out a licence. He did not make a report of the collision because there was no damage to his car.

Inspector Alexander said the defendant had lent the car to his brother, and it came into collision with bus. No action was being taken against defendant's brother, who was away from the Colony. The defendant himself was an experienced driver. It was a slight collision, and the bus received very little damage. The defendant had told the police that his car was stopped at the time, but whether he was driving or not, he should have reported the incident.

Dr. H. Kruppa was cautioned on a summons of leaving private car No. 3948 unattended in Chater Road. The doctor stated that he had gone into his office for a short while, and had left the car there because there was no other space available.

ALLEGED ROBBERS CAUGHT BY TRAFFIC POLICE

Two gangsters entered 278 Matauui Road, Kowloon City district, the home of Mrs. Buntzen, at 9.30 this morning, and after tying and gagging the victim, made off with $145 in cash and a gold finger ring.

In the street later, two men, alleged to be the robbers, were chased by Traffic Supt. McInnes on his motor-cycle and by a motor-driver in his vehicle, and eventually caught.

"Now I Feel Like A New Woman!"

Mother Of Five In England Tells Of After-Maternity Troubles Ended and Health Restored By DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

Of the many trials that women are called upon to endure, perhaps there is none greater than that of motherhood. All too frequently this ordeal is followed by extreme weakness and much suffering. A case in point is that of Mrs. Allman, the mother of five children, of 905, Manchester Road, Over Hulton, near Bolton, England, who stated recently to a newspaper reporter:

"After my last baby was born about two years ago I failed to recover strength. I always felt wretchedly weak, and if I tried to do any work I had a severe pain over my heart. My nerves were in such a state that I dare not go out shopping. That was not the worst of it, for I suffered terribly from cramp in the night all through my body. I was so wracked with pain, that I could not sleep."

"I tried various remedies, but derived no benefit, and then, about four months ago my brother-in-law advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as they had done his wife much good. I started taking the pills, and before long there was a decided improvement. This encouraged me to persevere with the pills. I continued to gain strength, and the cramp pains began to lessen until before long they went altogether."

"Now I am like a new woman. People remark what a wonderful change there is in me. Ever since a girl I suffered from anemia, but now all traces of it have disappeared."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the world-renowned blood builder and nerve tonic, are equally good for weak, debilitated, nervous men as they are for women. Chemists everywhere sell them.

These 2 Guardians of

Your Beauty

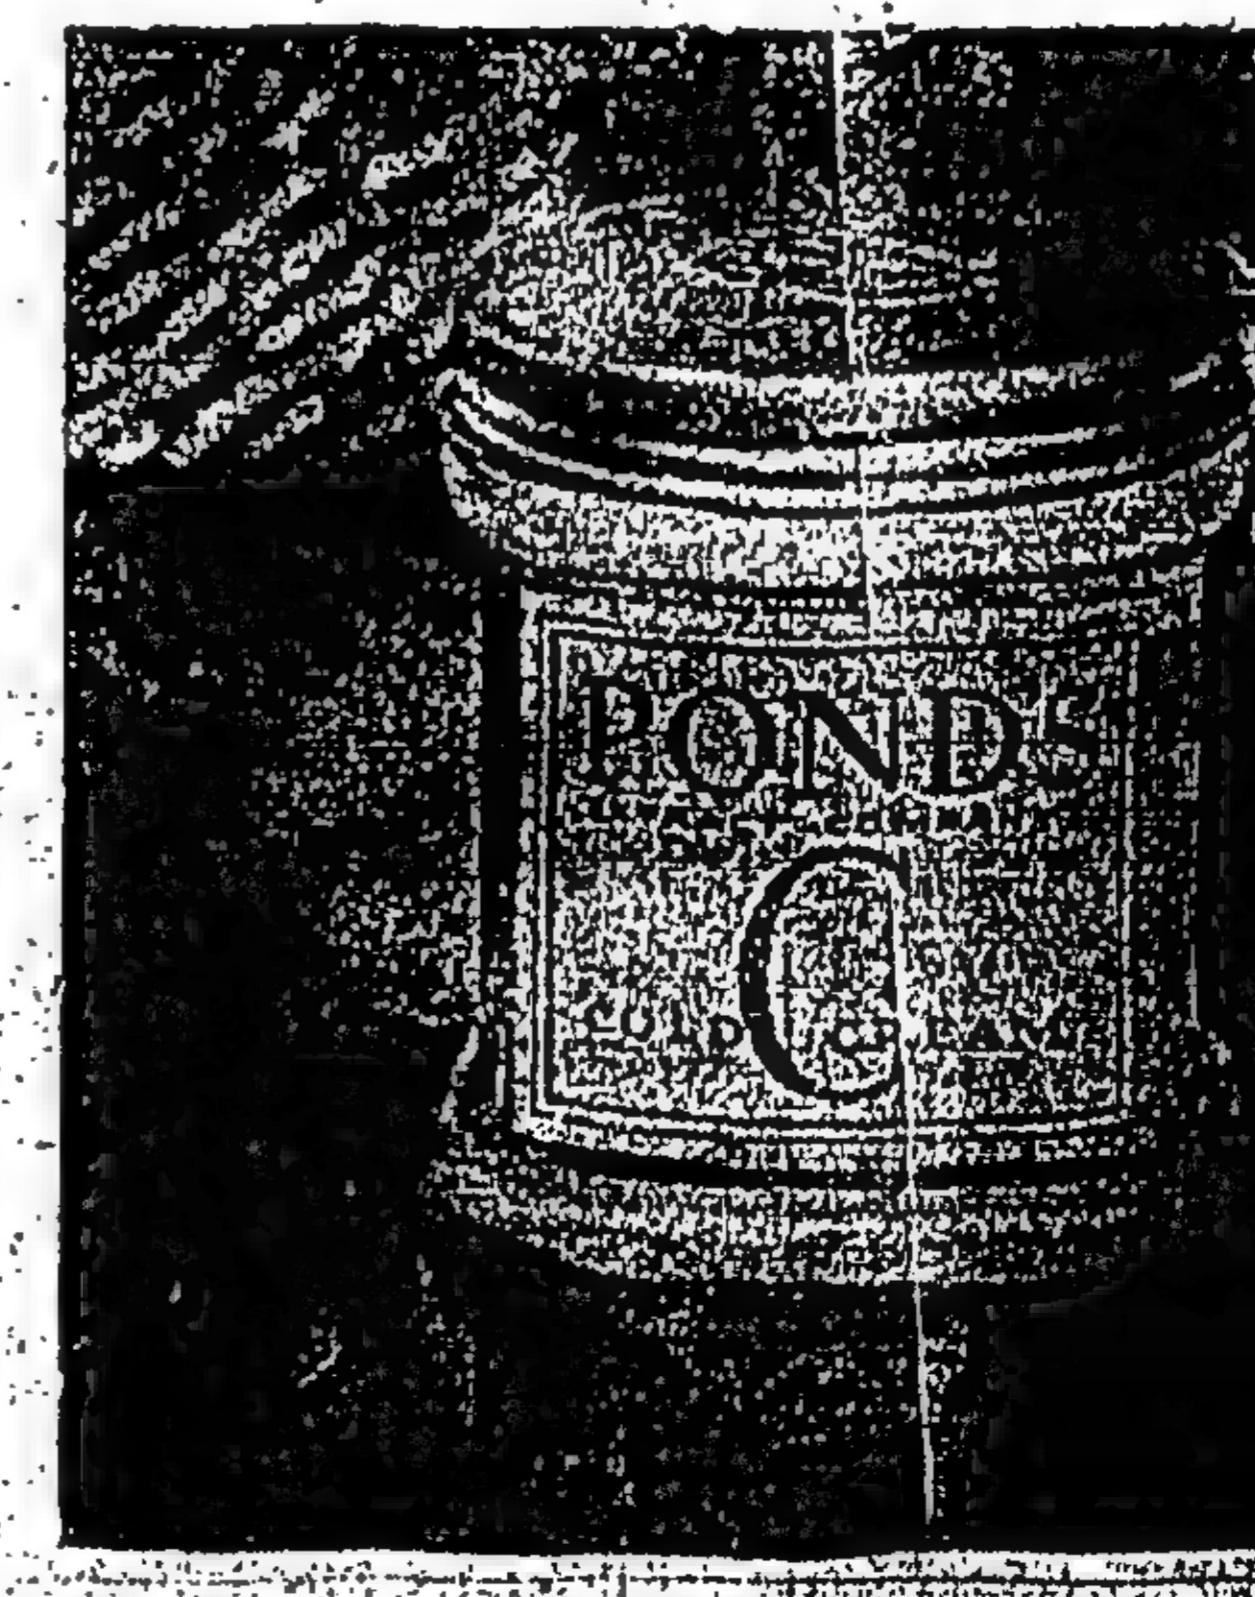

PROTECT YOUR SKIN IN ANY CLIMATE.

Pond's Two famous Creams sold all over the world. They can be bought in all stores and chemist shops... for women everywhere have proved the Pond's care of their skin an unfailing protection against exposure to harsh extremes of climate, to the fatigue and grime of travel, the searing heat of the sun, the bite of bitter winds.

Let those two guardians do for YOUR skin what they are doing for women in every part of the globe. Follow this way faithfully and watch your complexion grow younger, softer, clearer every day!

With Pond's Cold Cream cleanse your face and neck thoroughly several times a day, always after exposure and at bedtime. Smooth on the Cream generously, wiping off soiled Cream and applying fresh two or three times. You will be amazed how CLEAN and soft your skin looks after this thorough cleansing.

Now, to protect the texture and give a moist-rose bloom—Pond's Vanishing Cream. With your finger tips, lightly cover your face and neck with a delicate film of this fluffy Cream—then powder. You will be entranced at the even finish of your skin—the glowing translucence.

At bedtime, when you cleanse your face and neck, leave a little Cold Cream on overnight, to restore the oil that sun and wind have stolen from you. You can follow those simple directions wherever you may be—and lovely, youthful skin will repay you!

AVIATION PROSPECTS

Fresh hopes of an understanding being reached between the Hongkong and Nanking Governments in regard to mutual flying rights have been engendered by the visit to the Colony of Mr. Tai En-ki, the managing director of the China National Aviation Corporation. It is known that Mr. Tai has conferred with the local authorities on the subject, but, according to a statement which he made in Canton, nothing definite transpired from the conversations, as the subject is at present engaging the attention both of the Colonial Office and the Hongkong Government. The latter, however, is said to be anxious to come to an agreement on mutually satisfactory lines and thus open up the Colony to aerial contact with China. It has long been known that the authorities here and in London are desirous of overcoming the present obstacles, and if Mr. Tai's statement of the quid pro quo which the Nanking Government would be prepared to offer for the right to extend the C.N.A.C. service to Hongkong correctly represents the situation, it is reasonable to expect an early adjustment of the outstanding issues. According to Mr. Tai, the Nanking Government would, in exchange for the right to bring its planes here, grant permission for British planes to fly over Chinese territory on the projected Imperial Airways route from Singapore. In such an event, says Mr. Tai, there would be an exchange of mails and passengers as between the two services. Hitherto, it has been presumed that the Imperial Airways would provide its own feeder service from Singapore to Hongkong, but at the same time there have been indications that it might be prepared to work in with any substantially British concern. It remains to be seen whether there are local interests willing to come into the scheme. There is, at any rate, guarantee of a subsidy by the local Government if satisfactory arrangements can be reached. But whatever the eventual procedure may be, it is essential that definite steps be taken, without further delay, in linking up this Colony with other aviation services. Incidentally, the C.N.A.C. is said to have no knowledge of the American plans for a service from San Francisco to Canton; indeed, there is some doubt whether China would be prepared to come into such a scheme; indications are that the C.N.A.C. would prefer to establish its own link with Manila. However that may be, it is something to the good to realize that the project of bringing Hongkong into serial contact with the outside world is now assuming more definite shape. Happily, we can count on the Hongkong Government doing all within its power to hasten the consummation of this much-needed project.

NOTES OF THE DAY

To British people report of a "revolt" against the State administration in Louisiana by men who call themselves the "Square Dealers," seems an incredible thing. When two hundred citizens of a city the size of Baton Rouge arm themselves with shotguns and threaten to fight in order to put an end to the "arrogant dictatorship" of the faction led by Senator Huey Long. It would seem that there must be something very wrong with the political structure of Louisiana. Imagine two hundred fellows from Manchester threatening the Council with shotguns! If it had occurred anywhere else in the United States it would have been called a "revolution." But apparently that sort of thing is expected in Senator Long's part of the country. As a matter of fact one cannot be surprised at anything that happens there. Only recently Senator Long was at war with the New Orleans administration, allegedly because his party machine's workings were interrupted by officials who felt that the game of political patronage was being pushed too far. But in New Orleans, although the military was called out, there was never such a demonstration as this at Baton Rouge. The New Dealers are apparently business men, honest fellows, and it will be a pity if their demonstration does not arouse a higher authority than Senator Long and put a stop to his folly.

TO-MORROW'S TRAVEL

When the chairman of Imperial Airways announced that the constructional possibilities of civil aircraft go far beyond anything that has been realized hitherto, he made it plain that the limits to-day are determined only by what the public is prepared to pay. If governments were prepared to pay more for ground services and in subsidies, and passengers to pay higher fares, then quicker regular air services could easily be provided between England and Australia and a safe service between England and America. This sequel indicates that the recent dramatic air race from England to Australia provided one of those turning points which have marked the history of air travel. If that transcontinental and transmaritime journey to the Antipodes could be made in three days, why cannot the ordinary time for air mail be reduced by 50 or more per cent? The answer seems to be that it can, if the cost will be met.

NEW EXPERIMENTS

The race stirred public opinion in Britain. At once it became evident that the British people were demanding much faster and better inter-imperial communications. And swiftly in answer to this demand came the announcement that Imperial Airways was ready to supply a regular seven-day service from England to Australia for passengers and mails. But that was not all. It had become apparent that Britain was not willing to be behind hand in preparing for a regular transatlantic service. Imperial Airways is already experimenting with new types of aeroplanes and also with composite vessels, consisting of a flying boat capable of lifting and launching into the air a heavily laden seaplane. But it seems more likely that the solution of the problem of regular services between England and the United States will be found in the use of floating, anchored seadromes. Such a service no longer holds out serious economic difficulties. It can become a success as soon as the nations agree to co-operate in their use of the floating ports.

TO BARROW BY
SLED DEER

By ELIZABETH FORREST

(In The Christian Science Monitor)

FIVE o'clock of a morning early in May found us toiling up a gentle incline before the clustered igloos of the Nekluk reindeer herd. All night we had been labouring across the level, snow-clad tundra under the chill brilliance of the circling sun. At each step my sealskin boots broke through the thin, deceptive, crust, sank knee-deep in soft snow. Wearily I drew them out, only to thrust them in again, over and over-endlessly.

At my side, Kitook, my sturdy little sled deer, his head drooping under the weight of great branching antlers, mouth wide, snatching a bite of snow from time to time, walloped through soft drifts. The horizon line swept around us in a great, unbroken circle, bounding the vast expanse of white. Not a sound broke the silence save the pant of Kitook's loud breathing, the sharp crackle of sinews above the fetlock. Nothing was visible upon the great white plain except our three reindeer teams, strung out, one behind the other, en route from the home village of Wainwright to pay a friendly call upon our nearest white neighbours at Barrow, 100 miles away.

We had left Wainwright in the evening in order to give our sled deer, in their shaggy winter coats, the benefit of the cooler hours of night. We should not have set out at all; for snow had recently covered the tundra to depth of several inches, and neither blizzard nor freeze had yet packed it to good sledding. But we had not seen a white face in many months. School was over for the year, and the date long set for our Barrow visit had arrived. Our grub box was packed to overflowing with frozen beans, bread sliced and buttered before freezing, chunks of roast reindeer, cookies and doughnuts. Our sled deer had been brought in two days' journey from the icy Cape herd. All was in readiness. In spite of a trail that should have kept us at home, therefore, my husband and I, with our Eskimo guide, Tautuk, had set out and regretted it for eight exhausting hours.

An exclamation from the shrivelled old grandmother turned my eyes in her direction. She had risen stiffly to her feet and hurried to the seal oil lamp against the wall. Its flame was burning low with the yellowish tinge that indicated lack of oxygen. Sovek's wife raised a muted outcry, forced the portion back into the common pot, and carefully chose a choicer portion for her guest. Tautuk raised the piece of half-raw meat, seized it in his teeth and, with a deft stroke of his short knife, slashed off a suitable bite.

Never was sight more welcome than the Nekluk igloos—shapeless mounds of white from which black stove-pipes thrust out, aslant. Along a near-by snow ridge stretching to the herd, a mass of hundreds of dun, brown and spotted deer, their antlers silhouetted against the sky like a tangle of winter branches. No human life was visible, but out from the igloo entrances dashed a bevy of short-legged, sharp-eared little reindeer dogs, disputing our approach.

"You go in here, Sovek's igloo," said Tautuk, as he unloaded our dunnage before the largest mound. "I look moss—stake out sled deer."

As Tautuk trudged away to perform the Arctic equivalent of car parking, we turned to the igloo indicated. Bent nearly double, we dragged our grub box and sleeping bags in through a long hallway of snow blocks, pushed under a heavy dogskin curtain, and entered the igloo. Coming from the glare of sun on snow outside into the dim light filtering through seal intestines, at first we could distinguish nothing. Presently, however, we made out ceiling, walls and floor of handwoven driftwood with, in one corner, among a heap of skins and robes, the sleeping bags to shake our hands.

Anga hurried to a sealskin line above the stove and took from it my fur garments. Mittens, socks and boots had been turned inside out, carefully dried of melting snow and perspiration, and rubbed soft and pliable as velvet. A rip in one fawnskin sock had been mended with tiny parallel stitches of snow, and a tear in the parka sleeve had been neatly patched. Thus, from our earliest recorded history has the igloo hostess cared for her transient guest.

An hour later, fed, warmed, rested with fresh deer, we were once more on our way to Barrow.

Travel was now slightly better, 30-below-zero temperature and a strong wind having packed the loose snow and tightened the crust.

Peking, Jan. 28.
A portion of Japanese troops stationed at the east of Tungchatche withdrew five miles to the east yesterday afternoon; and a number of Japanese planes frequently flew over Kuyuan and Tushikow, but without dropping bombs.

These were the main features of the Charhar border activities throughout yesterday. The front most line held by the Japanese troops has been already moved beyond the disputed area, but the Chinese garrison forces are holding their original position in the eastern Charhar border area.

Colonel Matsui, Chief of the Japanese Military Mission at Kalgan, arrived at Chengtong yesterday afternoon by air from Chin-chow.

A final decision was expected, at a conference he held with General Sugihara at the Chengtong Japanese Military Headquarters last night, regarding the proposed Sino-Japanese Conference to be held for the settlement of the Charhar-Jeho border dispute.—Central News.

Departure

FIXED

USEFUL WORK

London, Jan. 28.
The actual date on which the International Force will leave the Saar has not yet been fixed.

The Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon, answering a question in the Commons, said the various contingencies were expected to leave at the same time as the Governing Commission handed over the territory to the German authorities. The arrangements, it was understood, would be discussed with the Commander-in-Chief, the Governing Commission and the Saar Committee of the League of Nations Council—British Wireless.

QUIET EFFICIENCY

London, Jan. 28.
The British troops in the Saar had maintained their reputation for quiet efficiency, said the Financial Secretary of the War Office, paying a tribute to those men in the House of Commons today.

They had been careful, good-humoured and always had shown complete impartiality. Although they kept in the background, their presence had been an important factor in an anxious situation. They had carried out their unusual duties in a spirit worthy of the best traditions of the Army.—Reuter Special.

DR. W. W. YEN WILL LEAVE SHORTLY

Nanking, Jan. 29.
Dr. W. W. Yen, Chinese Ambassador to Moscow, who has been on a long furlough at home, arrived at the capital last evening for the purpose of asking instructions from the Central Government before his return to Moscow.

When interviewed he said that after much hesitation he was at last persuaded to return to his duties at Moscow. He would catch the same steamer for Moscow with Mr. Mu Lan-fang, the noted Chinese actor, who will undertake a theatrical tour to Soviet Russia at the invitation of the Soviet Government.

Dr. Yen will probably start on his journey late in February.—Central News.

STRIVING FOR NAVAL TREATY
REASSEURED BY JAPAN

London, Jan. 28.
Reviewing the results of the recent preliminary bilateral naval conversations in London, the Prime Minister, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, in the House of Commons to-day, said they had fully served the purpose for which they were intended; namely, to enable the Governments concerned to understand their respective problems and viewpoints, and discuss a number of tentative suggestions for overcoming existing difficulties.

This process would continue through diplomatic channels and as soon as the situation developed so as to justify resumption, appropriate steps would be taken by His Majesty's Government.

Since adjournment the Japanese Government had given formal notice to terminate the Washington Naval Treaty. The British Government had realised for a long time that the prolongation of the treaty beyond 1936 would be contrary to the wishes of the Japanese Government; but he felt it to be only consonant with the frank and friendly spirit which always characterised relations between the two countries to say that the decisions of the Japanese Government in this matter had been received here with a sense of regret for the treaty had, during its term, served an invaluable purpose of avoiding naval armament competition with all its attendant evils of ill will and extravagance, and the British Government would regard it as a matter of grave concern if there should be a failure to negotiate, before the Washington agreement terminated, for a new arrangement limiting and regulating the future construction of naval armaments.

SATISFACTION

It was therefore with great satisfaction that His Majesty's Government noted the assurance made to them by the Japanese Government that they had no intention whatever to proceed to naval aggrandisement or to disturb international peace, but would continue rather to make sincere endeavours to strengthen the relationship of peace and amity among all powers by participating as heretofore in friendly negotiations with other powers concerned, and that they would strive for the conclusion with those powers of a new agreement which was fair, adequate and just in conception, and consonant with the spirit of disarmament, to replace the Washington Treaty.—British Wireless.

IN WIRELESS TOUCH

The following ships are expected to be in wireless communication with Hongkong to-day—General Lee, Sydne, President Wilson, Isar, Tungshun, Haichen, Niel Maresk, Anyo Maru, Tasca, Hydrangen, Semiramis, Marion Moller, Nellore, Ajax, Empress of Japan, Jean Labord, Fingal.

New York, Jan. 28.
The Bureau of Statistics report that the 1934 world silver production was 180,501,000 ounces, which is the highest since 1930.

These figures compare with 161,360,000 ounces for 1933, and 169,360,000 ounces for 1932.

The United States registered the largest gain which was 26 per cent. Mexico gained 9 per cent., and Canada 3 per cent.

In December the United States production was 2,917,000 ounces.

Imports of refined silver into the United States for December are reported as 10,902,000 ounces, while for the whole year 1934 141,747,000 ounces were imported, which compares with 141,078,000 ounces for the year 1933.

Imports of foreign silver coins dropped sharply during December amounting to $1,207,260 compared with $6,120,886 in November which was the highest during the year.

The sharp drop in imports of silver coins is attributed to the dwindling of Chinese exports of coins as a result of the export duty.—United Press.

ABATING

Paris, Jan. 28.
Abatement of the bullish wave on foreign exchanges regarding the possible revaluation of the American dollar, is arousing widespread interest here.

In the opinion of the market experts, the fact that the Bank of France has been selling dollars in large amounts and is apparently willing to continue this policy, is taken as a sign of confidence on the part of the French authorities in the stability of the gold value of the dollar.

The Bank of France, it is pointed out, would be reluctant to part with any large portion of its dollar holdings at present if there were any likelihood of the dollar being restored to its old parity.—Reuter.

MINISTERS' PARLEY

Paris, Jan. 28.
The Premier of France, M. Flandin was to-day in conference with M. Germain Martin, Minister of Finance, and M. Jean Tannery, Governor of the Bank of France.

The subject of their conference was monetary questions which will be discussed in London when M. Flandin, accompanied by M. Laval, French Minister for Foreign Affairs, visits the British capital at the end of this week.

The conference here to-day indicated that the question of stabilisation will probably be debated in London.—United Press.

ALL-CHINESE FINAL IN SENIOR SHIELD?

Final Ladies' Hockey Trial

TO-DAY'S GAME.

By R.H.B.

It is understood that Miss Iris Woolley, the St. Andrew's Club right half-back, who has been playing very well at left half in the Inter-port trial and practice matches, is to be given try-out at left back in the Colony team at Sookunpoong this afternoon.

Miss M. Remedios, of the Recreio, will again be seen in action on the left wing. She has been nursing an injured hand and has not taken part in the last two trials. On her play, though, she has proved herself a worthy candidate for the left wing vacancy.

For the position of left back, Miss F. Walker, Miss B. Hellberg and Miss A. Fowler have already been tried, while Miss P. Glittin and Miss O. Brown have been tested for left wing.

The Shanghai Ladies arrive on Friday and a week from to-day the Inter-port match—the first in the history of local ladies' hockey—will be played. The selectors will have to make their final selections to-day or it will be leaving matters too late.

Boy Beats A Billiards Record

By FRANK POXON

London, Jan. 3.—A little boy of 14 made a break of 130 yesterday afternoon in the semi-final of the Boys' Championship of billiards at the Burroughes Hall.

He did it in just less than a quarter of an hour.

The boy, Donald Cruickshank, of South Shields, looked the "complet player."

His opponent was H. Stokes, of Glasgow. Both boys were knickerbockers.

This 130 break is a record for the Boys' Championship, the previous best, in this event, being 114 by R. Garland when playing in the final against Sidney Lee—now a professional—in 1926.

Cruickshank played great billiards while making his record break. His losing hazards were perfect, the plumb centre of the pocket being found nine times out of ten.

That was just good—very good—stroke play, but I was even more impressed by the knowledge shown by Cruickshank of the technique of break-building. He always picked out the right shot when there was an alternative. This North Country lad has a brain as well as a cue.

LIKE A PISTON-ROD

His cue action was exactly right, his arm going back like a piston-rod in its precision.

PROSPECTS GOOD

RECORD POSSIBLE FOR S. CHINA

POLICE HOPES

BRIGHTER and brighter are becoming the prospects of an all-Chinese Senior Shield final. Saturday's results determined the appearance in the semi-final of Chinese Athletic and South China "B." If South China "A" beat the Club in the second round, the last four will include three Chinese teams. The luck of the draw, in fact, will make possible a second precedent; the appearance in the final of two teams from the same club. South China "A" have an odds-on chance of victory.

For the position of left back, Miss F. Walker, Miss B. Hellberg and Miss A. Fowler have already been tried, while Miss P. Glittin and Miss O. Brown have been tested for left wing.

The Shanghai Ladies arrive on Friday and a week from to-day the Inter-port match—the first in the history of local ladies' hockey—will be played. The selectors will have to make their final selections to-day or it will be leaving matters too late.

As I See It— By "Veritas"

defeating the Club, and if they can escape their junior outfit in the draw, the betting prospects of the two Caroline Hill teams contesting the final would be even.

THE DRAW FACTOR

A All-Chinese Senior Shield final is not yet on record. South China, in 1929 and again in 1931, when they had but one team entered in this competition, won the trophy, and are, in fact, the only Chinese club to have their name inscribed on the shield. The striking display of Chinese Athletic against the Recreio on Saturday has sent Chinese Senior Shield stock soaring, and only the Police (and possibly the Club) stand in the way of a new record.

So far as South China are concerned the draw will mean everything. If, in the event of their surviving the second round, South China "A" meet the Athletic, and the "B" the Police, the chances of the club supplying the finalists will be enhanced. South China "B" are more likely to beat the Police than the Athletic, who, on form, play the same time of game as the South China youngsters, but slightly better. On the other hand I think South China "A" will generally overcome the Athletic because they have a trick or two up their sleeves.

LIKE TACY LEE

IT should not be thought by the foregoing that I have eliminated, as possessing no chances, the Police and Club. Both teams are capable of beating any of the three Chinese combinations; the Police more especially than the Club. But current form is current form, and as the South China teams appear to be playing as well in the Shield as they are in the League, and the Athletic above league form, there is a slight balance in favour of the Chinese.

The Club, of course, have something of a traditional shield record. That is to say they have won the trophy five times since its inception in 1897. But there

BOXING CHAMPIONS & CHALLENGERS

PETTIFER BUSY: SOUTHERN TITLE FIGHTS

(By Fred Dartnell)

During the year just ended there have been several changes in the boxing championships.

Len Harvey, who held two titles at the beginning of 1934, is now without either. The only two champions who have retained their honours all through the year are Jackie Brown, the flyweight, and Jack McAvoy, king of the middle-weights.

Those you will notice belong to Lancashire, which county, according to my friend Percy Rudd, is going to carry off the Rugby championship honours this season.

Lancashire have had a pretty good year in recent years with regard to the boxing championships. Two of the latter, the bantam and cruiser-weight, are vacant at present, but in the Palatine they do any, and with very good reason, that Johnny King is the uncrowned monarch of the division. When Dick Corbett automatically lost his title, through getting too heavy, King remained and Peterman, the challenger, was unable to beat him—I don't see anybody else who could do it at 8st. 6lb. to beat him.

—BY TACY LEE

Jackie Brown is eager to defend his championship as soon as possible, but before that occurs Tommy Pardoe and Benny Lynch have to battle out an eliminator. Pardoe, a sturdy fighter, comes from Birmingham and has won heaps of amateur honours, while in Scotland they like Lynch to Tacy Lee, which is good enough praise for any boxer of to-day. I think, however, that Brown will keep on his throne. He, McAvoy and Peterman represent the best class amongst our championship holders.

Nel Turleton may expect some troublesome times ahead from such feather-weight rivals as Dick Corbett, Dave Crayle, Benny Capron and Ginger Forman. The first two are most likely, than not, between them in bringing the title back to London.

When Pritchard (Aberystwyth) Jack Lloyd, of the ball he fell and some of the crowd declared that he was kicked on the knee.

It was then that the crowd rushed on to the field and Lloyd was struck several times before the police escorted him to the dressing room. He returned to the field, but throughout the remainder of the game he was subjected to cat-calling and boozing.

At the close of the match the crowd again attempted to get at Lloyd when he was leaving the field surrounded by police and when he reached his hotel there was a hostile demonstration.

Women's Olympic Games Condemned

"There is no mercy for the beaten athlete," said Dr. Adolphe Abrahams, addressing the British Association for Physical Training in violent competition.

For that reason he had never hesitated to speak against Olympic games for women, and he was strongly against the highly competitive lawn tennis.

He confessed that he might be wrong, and spoke of a woman doctor who had told him that he was, and said that she held that women on the whole were more flexible and adaptable than men.

"I speak from experience. The people only remember that he was beaten. With that anxiety continually before him, day and night, is there any wonder that symptoms of overfatigue through the nervous system must occur?"

He (Dr. Abrahams) would expect it to be much worse in the case of the girl or young woman. He visualised a higher type of nervous system much less likely to stand up against the same strain—the hero-worship, adul-titude.

Speaking of smoking by athletes he said so far as he could see there was no clear evidence of tobacco having had any deleterious effect.

BIG BADMINTON MATCH TO-MORROW

ELIOT HALL AND THE RECREIO

VARSITY TEAM FAVoured

(By "Veritas")

Recreio "A" meet Eliot Hall in the first division men's doubles of the badminton league to-morrow, and it is anticipated that Polkulum, will be invaded by numbers of enthusiasts anxious to see the two strongest teams in this division in conflict.

Both are as yet undefeated, and there is no questioning the fact that the championship rests between them. The Eliot Hall team, comprising Hongkong University men, most of whom learnt their badminton in Malaya, have, in the course of the last two seasons, recorded wins against the Recreio in friendly matches.

Since then, however, the Portuguese have made tremendous strides, and are certain to offer brilliant opposition to the Varsity players.

COURT ADVANTAGE

The advantage of playing on their own court, which has a somewhat low ceiling, thus nullifying lobbing, may be the determining factor in favour of Eliot Hall. The players themselves adopt the short game and as a team have no equals in the Colony in this type of play. Against this the Recreio have well controlled but highly developed speed; and are particularly severe overhead.

The match should provide interesting and spectacular entertainment, and it is unlikely that either team will win by more than the odd game.

Owing to the desire of the players to watch this match, the "B" Division game on Wednesday between Recreio "B" and the Victoria Recreation Club has been mutually postponed.

NAVY RUGBY

Medway & Suffolk Fail To Score

A rugby game between the Medway and the Suffolk at Hythe Valley yesterday resulted in a draw, both teams failing to score.

C. Smith at full back was the outstanding player for the Suffolk, and Willis also put in some good work. Amongst the Medway representatives S. Lt. Knox was the pick, and the forwards all played a good game, in contrast to the Suffolk pack who put up a rather poor showing.

The teams were:

Preston	2	Wolves	1
Wednesday	2	Blackburn	2
Second Division
Burnley	0	Sheffield U.	2

MEO PERICULO'S LAST WORD

LETTER MISINTERPRETED

Sports Editor
Hongkong Telegraph

Sir.—"A long-winded diatribe concerning one match." What a terrific mouthful. I confess to being nervous of continuing a discussion with a man who rattles off phrases like that. But I would like to point out to "Veritas" that I did not suggest that R. Abbit should every week write a l.w. d. one m. I only perpetrated a l.w. d. on the H.K.C.C.-I. R. C. match as an example of the incompleteness of the reports we get from R. Abbit of the more interesting of the week-end cricket matches. I have no doubt that people who watched other games that day could indicate many an interesting point they saw which was not referred to in the cricket notes. But that would be hardly fair. R. Abbit watched the Club-Indian match in its entirety and it would hardly be right to spring off points about other matches on him. The same remark does not, of course, apply to the game he watched.

I note with pleasure that "Veritas," of whom I saw nothing on the day of the match in question, "is prepared to admit" (presumably in agreement with me) that "Mine bowls equally as effectively with the balls which pitch on or outside—the lug-stump etc., etc."

The pleasure is, however, somewhat modified by the fact that that was not what I meant to convey at all. I would have thought anyone could have read me as meaning that Mine, although he undoubtedly did bowl well most of the time he was on, bowled too many shortish balls, some on the leg side, to deserve to be described as having bowled consistently, accurately and well.

Still, it is something to have a man like Veritas agreeing with one without having seen the facts for himself. It is not necessary, therefore, to discuss any other points there may be.

AUSTRALIAN CRICKET RECORD

335 RUNS FOR 7TH WICKET

Sydney, Jan. 3.
C. W. Andrews and E. G. Bensted established a new Australian record here to-day with a seventh-wicket partnership of 335 runs for Queensland against New South Wales in a Sheffield match.

This is only nine runs short of world record.

Andrews played a brilliant innings of 253. He hit 26 fours during a stay of nearly seven hours.

Bensted's contribution to the partnership was 155, which contained 19 fours. He was concerned in the previous record for the seventh wicket, with K. Mossop, four years ago, when Queensland played South Australia.

To-day the New South Wales bowling was weak. The absence of O'Reilly and McCabe was sorely felt, and with runs coming freely in all parts of the field the "Hillites" began to voice their feelings.

They called on Oldfield to send for Miss Palmer, the New South Wales girl who took 7 wickets for 18 against England recently in the first women's Test match. Bensted.

Goalkeeper Accused Of Manslaughter

An incident at a football match had a sequel at Swansea police court, when Charles Donovan, one of the goalkeepers, was accused of the manslaughter of Edward Thomas Cole, a player on the opposing side. Donovan pleaded not guilty.

Cole died after a football match at Swansea, on Dec. 13, between Cwm Athletic and South Wales Transport A.F.C.

Donovan was goalkeeper for Cwm and Cole was a member of the other team.

Edward John Morris, a spectator, who said he was standing near the goal post, and Cole accidentally kicked Donovan, and that then the latter told Cole that he would "have it in for him."

Later, he said, Donovan ran out from the goal straight at Cole and struck his knee at the same time striking him with his fist. Both players were sent to hospital in Swansea Hospital two days later.

Witnesses for the defence attributed Cole's death to an accident.

William James Gow, the referee, said he only saw Donovan fall on Cole in the course of play.

GIRL COMPLAINS OF BEING SLAPPED

A fine of $30 was imposed upon Lau Sui-sam, aged 38, a married woman, of No. 40 Fuk Wing Street, when she appeared before Mr. E.

W. Hamilton at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, on a charge of keeping an unregistered mut-tsa, named Ho Ngan-nui, alias Lui Mui, aged 17.

The charge was brought against the defendant as the result of a complaint made by the girl to the Secretariat for Chinese Affairs on Saturday morning. The girl alleged that she was slapped on the face by the defendant because she would not return to the country as she was afraid of being resold.

About 11 years ago the girl was presented to a family, the head of which decided to resell her in Hongkong, so the girl's mother appealed upon the defendant to take the girl, which she did, paying the mother $55.

Inspector H. W. Fraser, of the Secretariat for Chinese Affairs, appeared for the prosecution.

CHAPTER XXVII

Carol Kendall spoke to the chauffeur, driving the car. "With so much room in front, I don't know why we must stay back here."

The young man at the wheel drove on steadily. There was determination in the set of his shoulders. He made no reply.

Carol sat back smiling. When she reached her destination, a handsome residence, she said carelessly, "Come for me at one o'clock."

"But I understand."

"You understood that I was staying the night with Virginia Lee. Well, I'm going to her party but I am not spending the night."

"Yes, Miss Kendall. I'll tell your mother, miss."

"You are not to tell my mother. I'll tell her myself when I reach home."

"Very well, Miss Kendall."

"You're not quite human are you?"

The blond young chauffeur merely bowed, turned the car and drove away.

About 12 o'clock Carol, passing her friend, said carelessly, "Virginia, I don't think I should stay to-night. Mother hasn't been well. I've phoned to have the car sent for me."

"I'm sorry. But you shouldn't have come for the car. Some of us would have run you out."

"There is no reason to take anyone from the party."

A little later, with her evening wrap drawn about her, Carol was being driven home. Presently she said, "Stop the car." This time she added, "Please. We might as well talk this out."

"This is so much better," she said a moment later, seated beside the young man at the wheel.

There was no reply.

"You are very uncommunicative," Carol persisted. "I don't believe I have ever known anyone more so. Is your name really Lawrence?"

"Yes."

"One shouldn't call a chauffeur Larry?"

"Certainly not."

"Then I shall call you Larry."

They drove a few minutes in silence and then Carol said slowly, "Of course you know I arranged this so I could drive with you. Don't pretend you don't. Drive any place you want, Larry, but don't take me with you."

"You are out of your head to do such thing," the young man spoke roughly but the car was turning from the familiar route.

"I couldn't bear going on like this any longer," Carol said.

"I couldn't bear to see you playing chauffeur and believing you had me fooled. What college did you attend, Larry? And why the masquerade?"

"What difference does it make?"

"It makes a lot of difference to me," Carol said. She tumbled on bravely, earnestly, "because, you see, I care."

The car's speed was checked. It stopped suddenly and Carol was in his arms.

"We're both crazy, Carol. I should have gone away."

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

For a number of years tournament play in England was unpopular, but since development of the British Bridge League, tournaments now are almost as popular here as in America. To-day's hand was written up by Capt. Ewart Kempson, who participated in the American Bridge League tournament at Asbury Park last August. The hand was played in the Liberal Cup Tournament in a match between teams captained by Frank Nesbit and J. R. Bell.

The Bidding.

The bidding I give is the way I believe most American authorities would bid the hand. However, the English bidding was slightly different.

When West bid a spade, North overcalled with two spades. We do not believe in using a cue bid until after a suit has been shown. Also, as the hand was played in England, when a six-heart contract was reached, East doubled.

We do not double a six contract unless it is certain that the contract will be defeated, because usually, if a six contract is defeated, you will receive a good score without doubling. But if you double and they make the contract, you are bound to be below average on the board.

By doubling, we get the information that South has a four-card suit and now, when North cue bids in spades, he tells his partner quite a story. First, that he has no losers in spades; second, that he has normal support for his partner's bid and, most important of all, he is willing to try for a slam.

Due to the fact that East doubled North's club bid, and that North made a cue bid in spades, West thought that his safest opening was the singleton king of clubs, which North won with the ace.

Before attempting to ruff the clubs, the declarer must take two rounds of trump, and now he should lead the five of clubs. When East plays the four spot, declarer should let the trick ride, discarding a spade.

The reason is that he is perfectly willing to have the opponents win one club trick. The clubs are solid from the five to the nine spot. Two clubs can be ruffed in dummy.

If East covered with the ten spot, the declarer would ruff and would still have the same play, losing only one club trick, thereby making his contract of six-odd.

Capt. Ewart Kempson, who participated in the American Bridge League tournament at Asbury Park last August. The hand was played in the Liberal Cup Tournament in a match between teams captained by Frank Nesbit and J. R. Bell.

The bidding I give is the way I believe most American authorities would bid the hand. However, the English bidding was slightly different.

When West bid a spade, North overcalled with two spades. We do not believe in using a cue bid until after a suit has been shown. Also, as the hand was played in England, when a six-heart contract was reached, East doubled.

We do not double a six contract unless it is certain that the contract will be defeated, because usually, if a six contract is defeated, you will receive a good score without doubling. But if you double and they make the contract, you are bound to be below average on the board.

By doubling, we get the information that South has a four-card suit and now, when North cue bids in spades, he tells his partner quite a story. First, that he has no losers in spades; second, that he has normal support for his partner's bid and, most important of all, he is willing to try for a slam.

The trail, on the third night, was the sort of which the Arctic traveller dreams. Cold and wind had packed the tundra's surface to the hardness of cement. Over this glistening white surface our sleds were swaying away at the speed which makes reindeer travel at its best a sport without a rival. I closed my eyes, felt against my cheeks the weight of frost-white lashes. The cold, pure air stung my face, drove the breath back into my lungs.

I had the feeling of being rushed through empty, silent space. No more running behind the sled or tugging at the sealskin guiding line for greater speed. Scarce four hours of travel, and we mounted the bank from beach to tundra and saw before us the white steeple of the most northerly church in the world, rising from the scattered houses and igloos of Barrow. And from their dwellings, men, women and children poured forth to welcome us to the northernmost point of North America.

BRITISH LABOUR QUESTIONS

MINISTER APPEALS FOR ADVICE

London, Jan. 28. Referring to his discussions last week with representatives of national bodies of employers and employees, relating to the possibility of absorbing more workers into employment, and including the proposal for shortening the hours of work Mr. Oliver Stanley stated in the Commons that he was sure the assistance of all who had had actual experience would be available for his guidance in the discussion which he proposed undertaking with representatives of individual industries.

Answering a further Parliamentary question, the Labour Minister said that the negotiations into which the employers and operatives' organisations had entered, in accordance with last year's Cotton Manufacturing Industry Act with view making a new and comprehensive agreement, had now been practically completed, and he understood that a joint application for making an order under the Act would shortly be made.—British Wireless.

H.M.S. HOOD'S DAMAGE

INQUIRY BEING HELD AT GIBRALTAR

London, Jan. 28. A complete report of the damage sustained by H.M.S. Hood, which was in collision with H.M.S. Renown during exercises off the coast of Spain on January 23, has not yet been received by the Admiralty.

It is known that the Renown's stern casting is damaged, and it will possibly necessitate her return to England for repairs in due course. Meanwhile the Hood may return to England now to complete her repairs before combined exercises.

A Court of Inquiry is taking place at Gibraltar to-day.—British Wireless.

EXHIBITION OF PICTURES

AMBULANCE BRIGADE COMPETITION

AN AUSTRALIAN WEDDING

CEREMONY AT THE REGISTRY

An interesting Australian wedding took place at the Registry yesterday morning, when Mr. Theodore H. S. Allen was married to Miss Florence K. Mullholland. Prior to the ceremony, the couple were entertained on H.M.S. Tamar by Lieut. Beach Thomas, R.N.

Following the ceremony, a reception took place at the Hongkong Hotel, amongst those present being Mr. and Mrs. Murray Lt. Watkins, R.N., Mr. Geoffrey Lammett, Miss Yvonne Shenton, and others.

The happy couple are proceeding to New Guinea on the a.s. Frederick.

WEST AUSTRALIA PETITION

JOINT COMMITTEE MOY EXPLORE

London, Jan. 28. In regard to the petition by the Government of Western Australia to be permitted to secede from the Commonwealth, the Dominions Secretary, Mr. J. H. Thomas, said in the Commons that as similar petitions had been addressed to both Houses, he realised there would be advantage in consideration of the question by a Joint Select Committee, and he proposed to explore the possibility of adopting such a course.—British Wireless.

LOCAL EXCHANGE EASIER

BUT UNDERTONE FIRM

The Hongkong dollar opened this morning at 1s. 9.3/8d., which was unchanged from yesterday afternoon's rate. Locally, the market is a shade easier than yesterday, but the undertone remains firm. Inter-bank rates are 1s. 9.6/8d. and 1s. 9.11/16d.

Silver prices advanced 1/16th in London yesterday. America and China bought, while India operated both ways. The market was firm.
